FOREWORD

This volume of the Oracle Annual presents graphically in picture and briefly in prose the story of the year at Bay View ending in June, 1947. One who turns these pages will find a school striving to bring the fullest opportunities for growth to each individual student.

Dear Val:
I'll always remember you as the girl who was so small in body, but had lots of luck and success.
Love, Lorraine Limanski

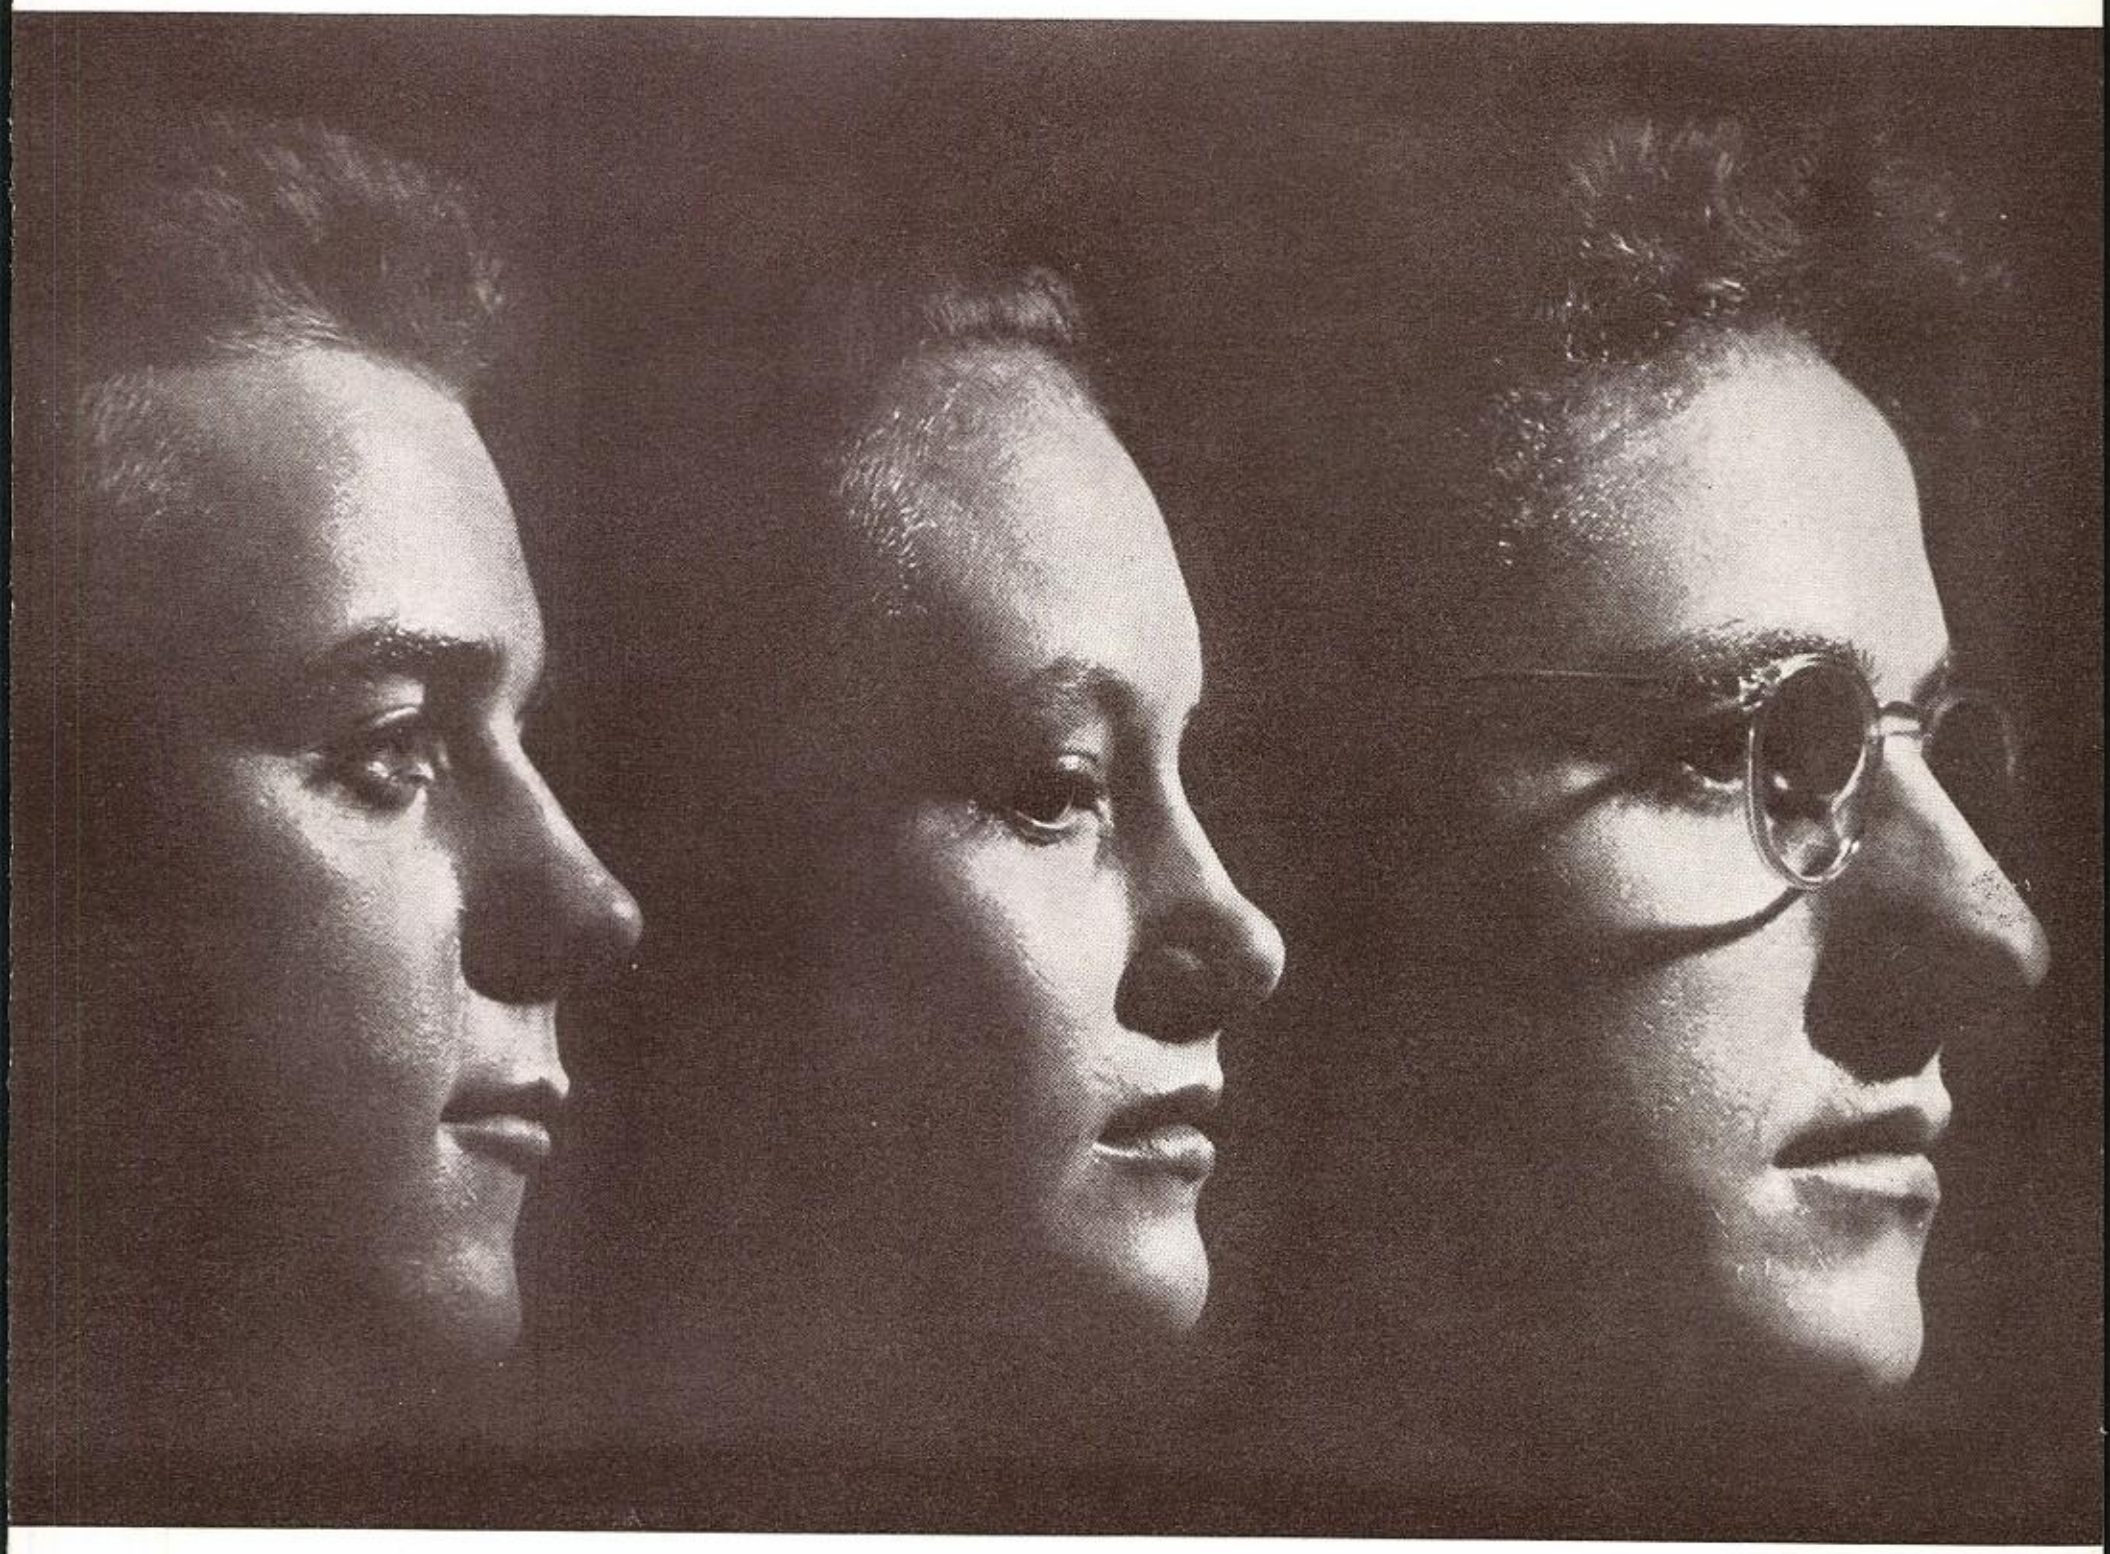
A DEDICATION

To a swell kid
much happiness and success
Jim Lowery

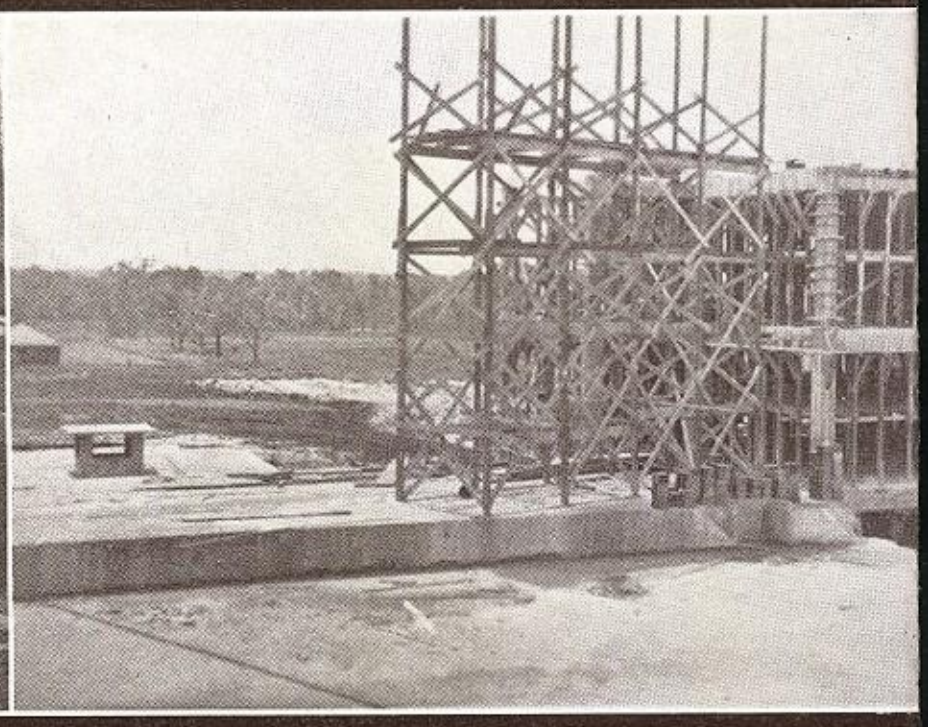


To all those who come to Bay View, unheralded, ignorant of their own powers, and find within its walls the chance to grow in physical skill and grace, the joy of working with others, and the lift to the spirit only the consciousness of learning brings, we dedicate this book. We dedicate it, the 1947 Oracle annual, to everyone who has found here the opportunity to develop the individuality which he knows is his alone.

Barracks were Bay View's home for seven years. Here is the new building with some of the barracks still standing.

Mr. G. A. Fritsche, first principal of Bay View turns over a shovelful for the new building.

This picture must recall to many graduates the good old days in the barracks, from 1914 to 1922.

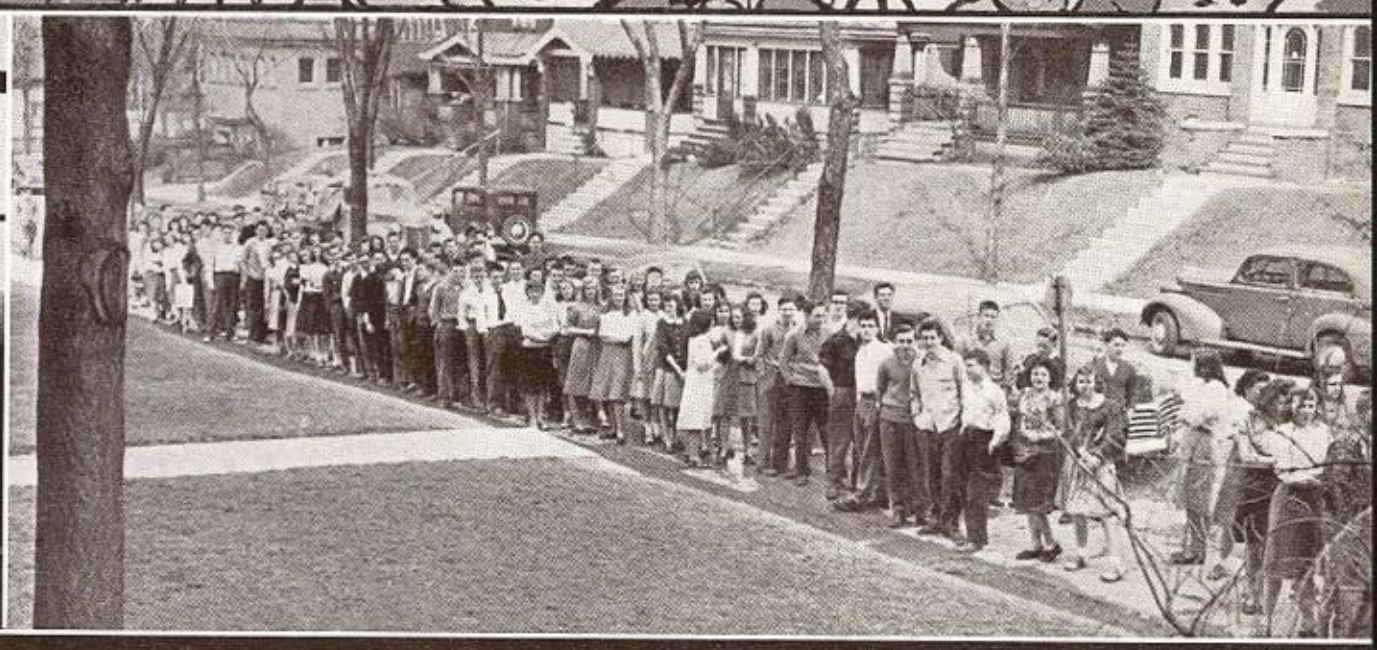


Twenty-five years ago there were shortages, but at long last, the new building was under construction.

Mr. Lorentz, Mr. Berg, Mrs. Wegner, Mr. Kyper, Miss Jameson, Dr. Korn, Miss Pierson, Mr. Gillo, Miss Welsh, Mr. Costello — on the faculty over a quarter of a century.

Mr. Crawford, Miss Statz, Mrs. Garling, Mis Oelhafen, Mrs. Lynch came twenty-five years ago.

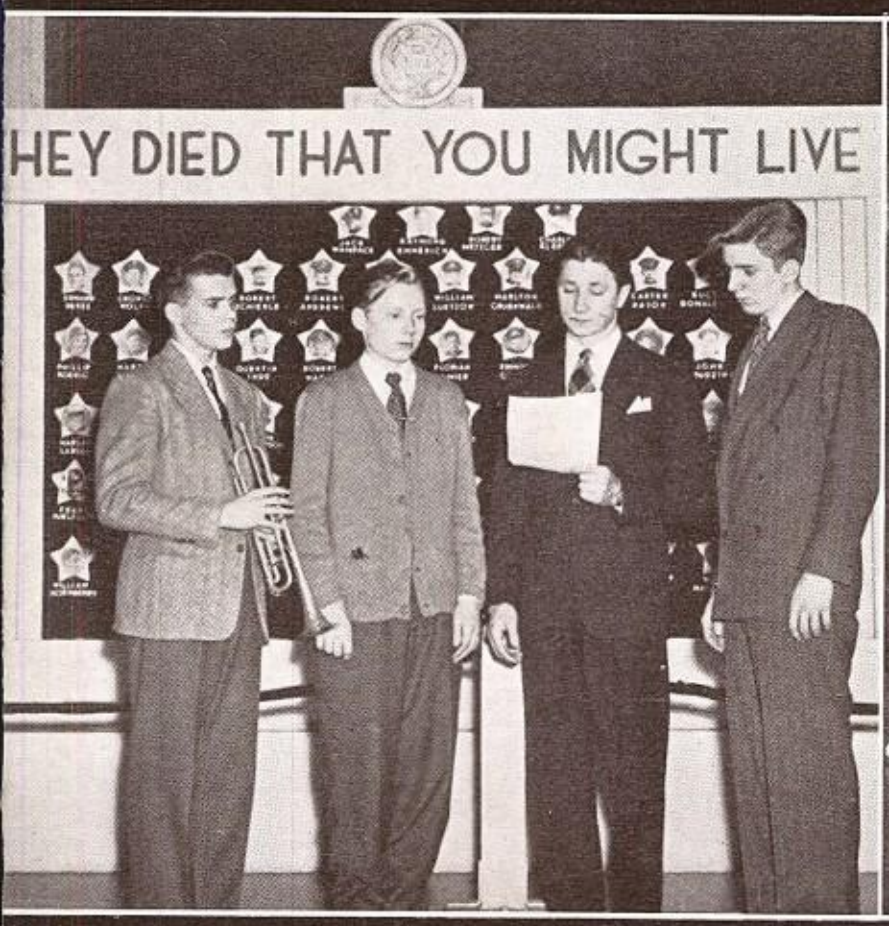
Daniel Gorney and Glenn Greske ask Miss Statz for a change of program before she takes her wraps off.



Twice a month all Bay View deserts the building for a fire drill. It's a welcome "pause in the day's occupation."

Mrs. Lynch welcomes a group of freshmen to the homeroom they will have for four years.

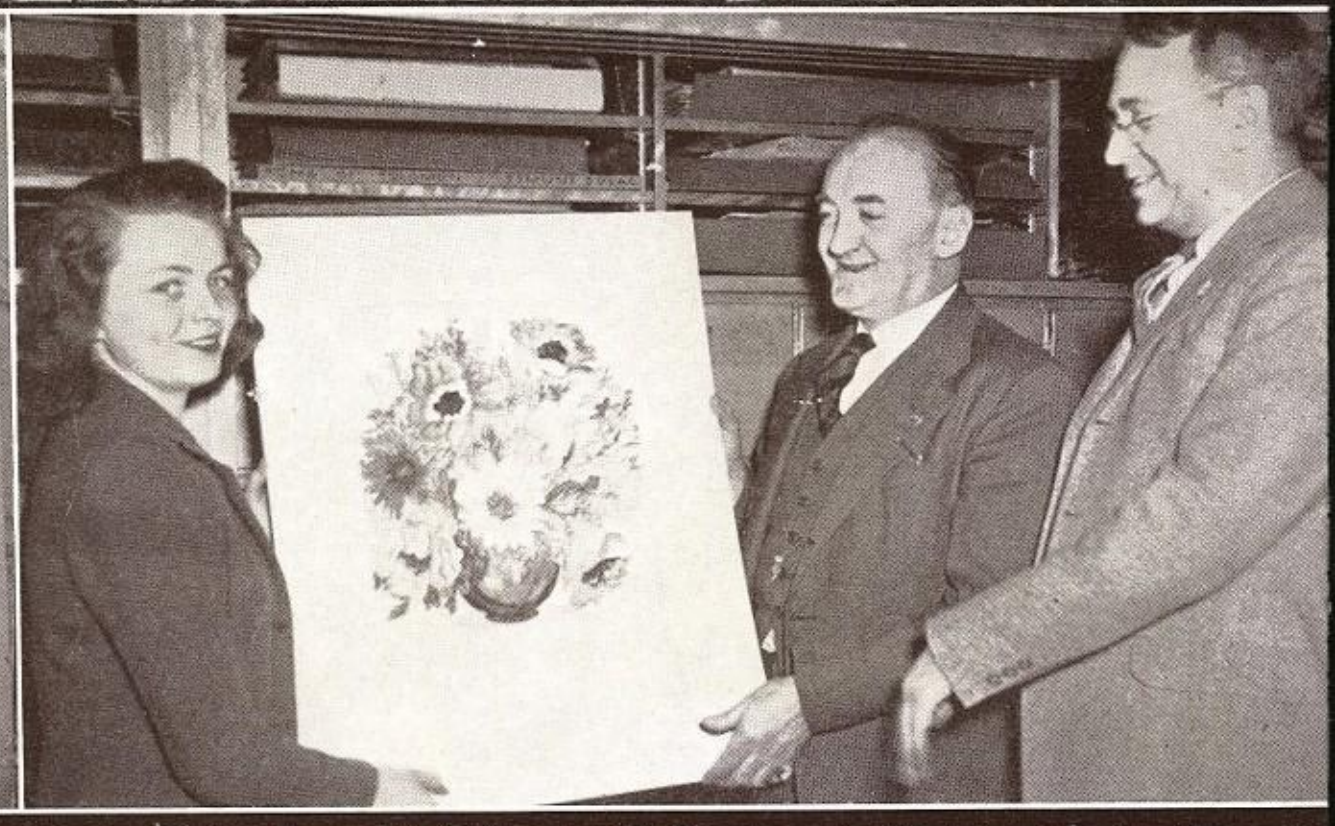
Mr. Suttle's "May I have your attention to directions for a convocation," will be remembered by all Bay View.



Bay View adds a Gold Star for Charles Kleffen, honor student class of '39, lost on a flight to China.

Mr. May and Dr. Fox cast a critical eye at the excuse each student presents for admittance to class after an absence.

Chief Red Fox of the Blood Tribe tells Bay View about the first Americans.



Barbara Tanner, Mr. Pelican, and Mr. Summ examine the water color entered by Marie Rechlicz in the Milwaukee Journal Student Calender Contest.

Doris Jones illustrates on the piano the characteristics of periods in the history of music.

Mr. Williams and comedian Terry look over the score of an opera.

Here is Aloha Baker, who presented her film, "Explorers of the Purple Sage."

Max Nohl prepares to tell a full auditorium audience of his deep-sea diving.

Miss Edith Quade explains vocational opportunities at the Milwaukee Public Museum.

Bay View and Rufus King students discuss "Labor's Right to Strike." Their advisors are Miss Steel and Miss Schott.

Jane Baumann and Althea Ceynowa charm a snake at the Music Festival.

The dance band prepares to play at one of the school dances. Robert Knutzen is the student director.

Mr. Osterndorf gives the Usher talent show award to Barbara Gutkowski.

Gwen Berg explains Christmas plans to the servants, Barbara Remy, and Bernard Hobach.

Jim Schulz and Patricia Hilton tell Bernard Hobach their plans to leave home.

Mr. Williams directs the dance band while Louise Sansone does a hand-stand at the talent show.

Long before the window opens, students line up to get tickets for the class play, "The Man Who Came to Dinner."

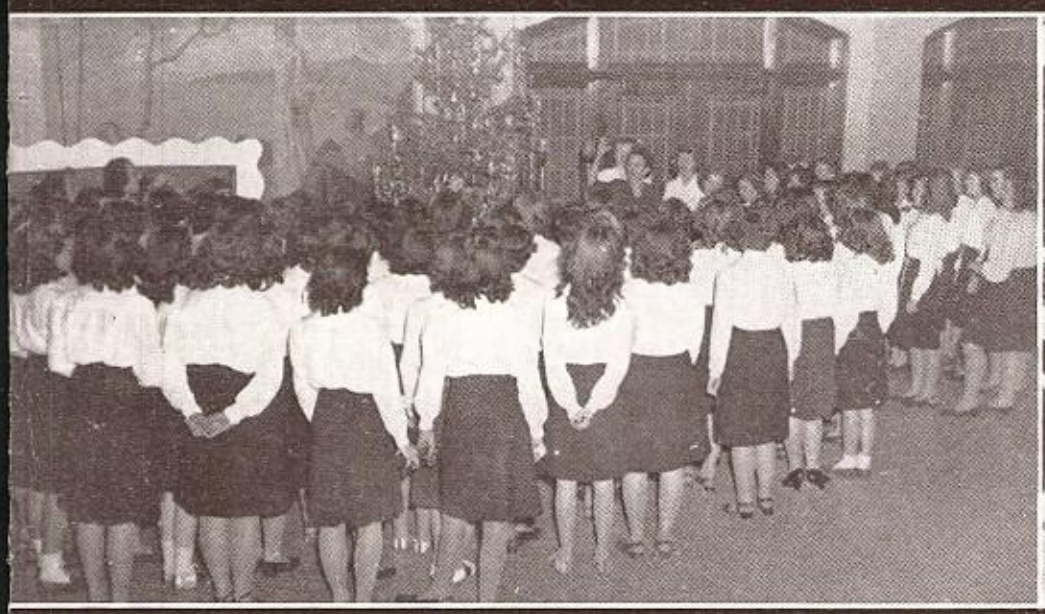
Mr. Whiteside gets instructions to leave from Mr. Stanley, Robert Gleisner, while the mother, Betty Christie, and the daughter, Patricia Hilton, listen.

Here the doctor, Charles Schmuhl, tries to discuss his book with Howard Ringstad, Mr. Whiteside.

athleen Rauls, Geraldine Sobieszczyk, and Marie Rechlicz serve at a Christmas tea given for the faculty.

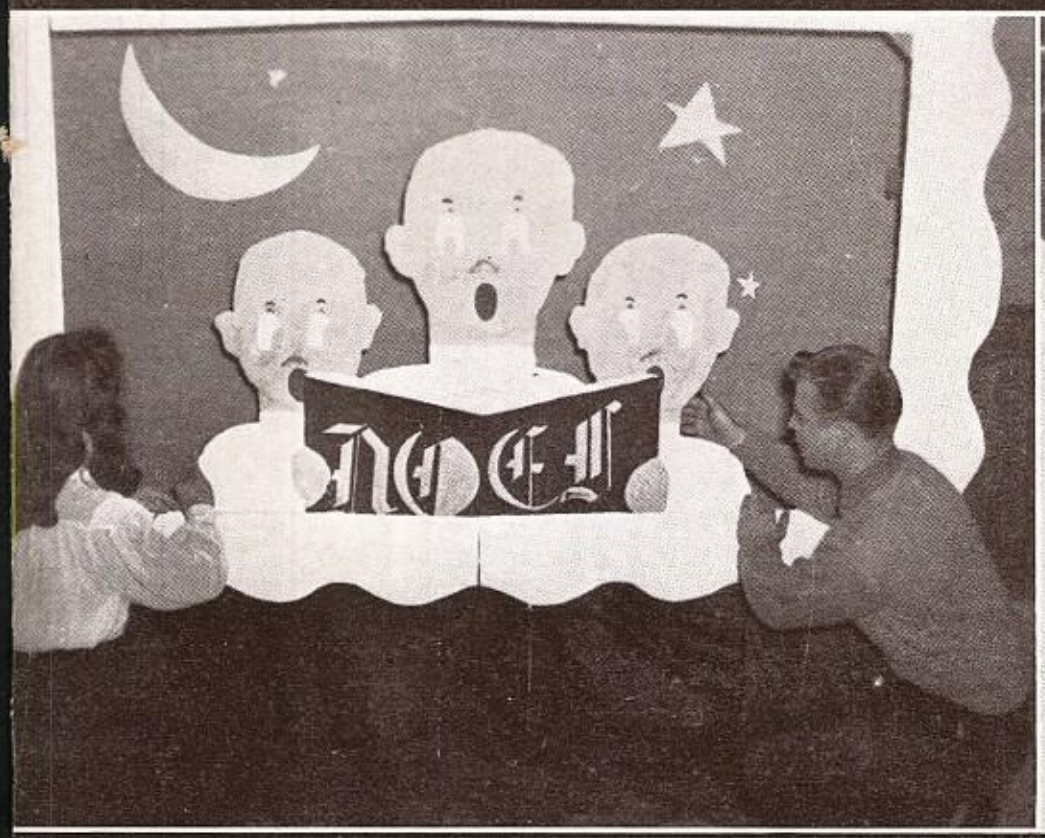
Camille Sabinash decorates for Halloween.

Seniors are measured for the caps and gowns they wear at commencement.



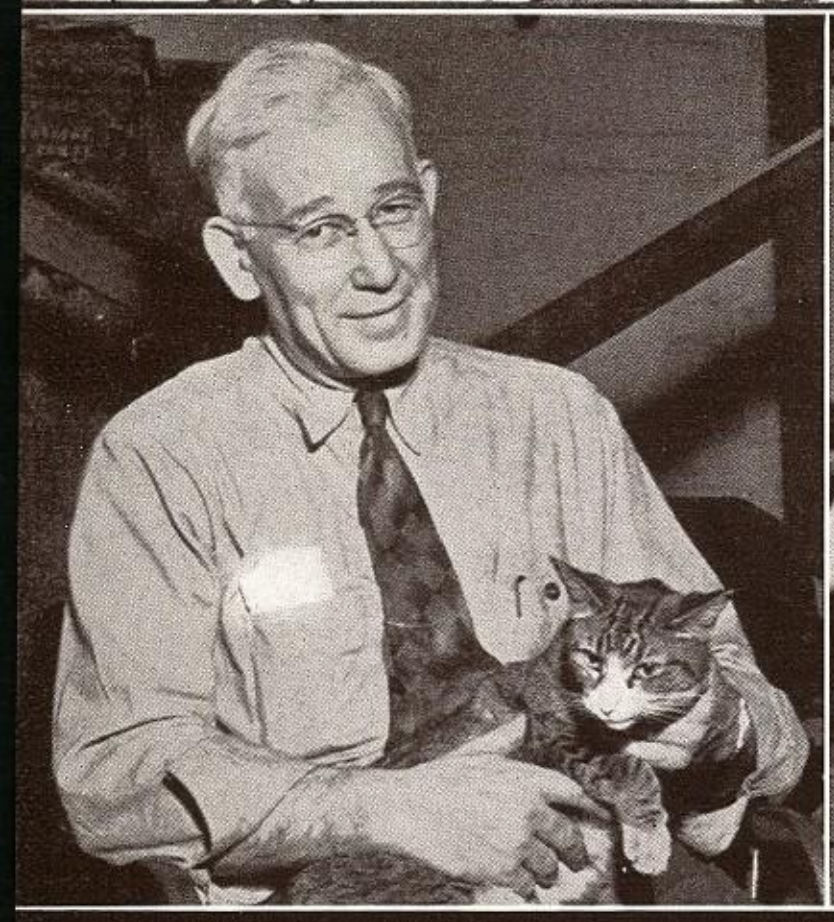
Miss Conley directs the Girls' Glee Club in the carols sung every year before the mural.

With street-cars stalled by the great blizzard, which began on Commencement night, everybody walks.



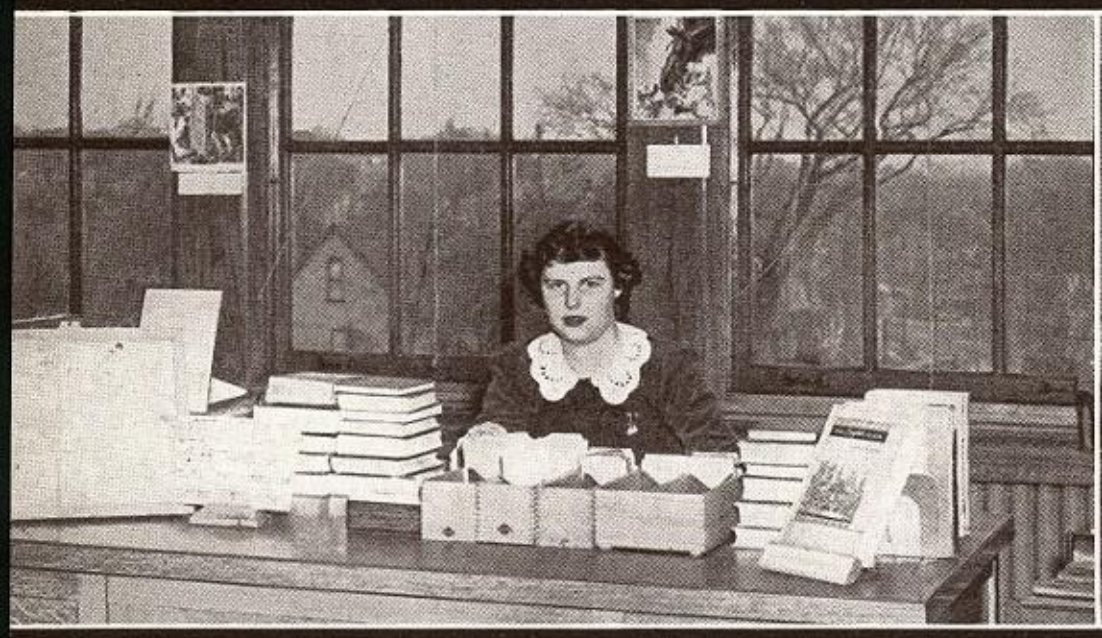
Nancy Mosser and Jack Wiegert finish the Christmas display set up at the entrance to the auditorium.

The great blizzard is partly cleared away so that students may return after an unexpected vacation.

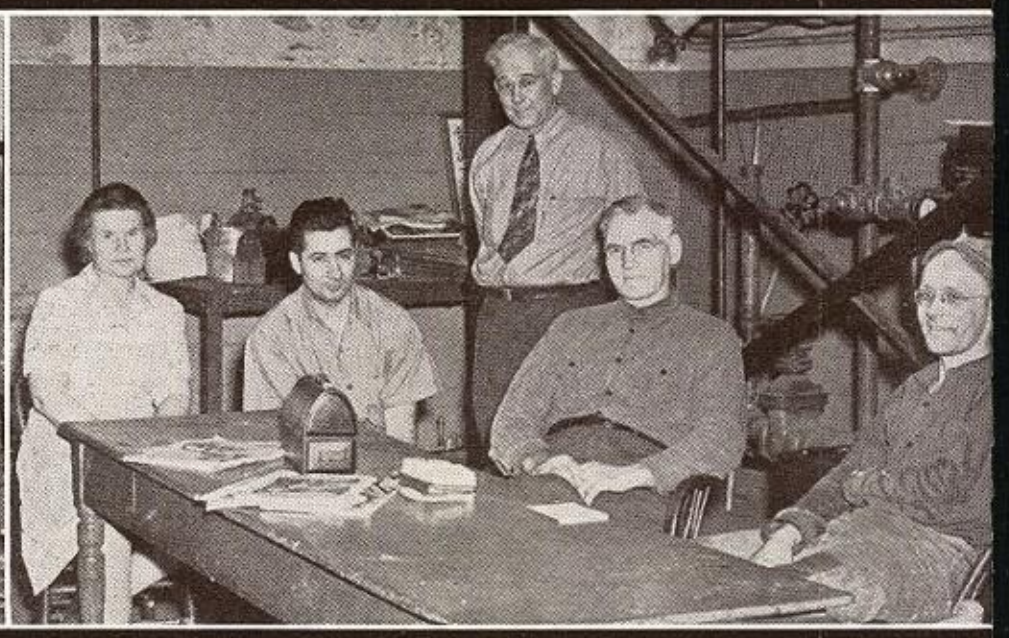


The chief engineer, Mr. Nuernberger, takes a moment off to play with his cat.

These student office assistants help keep the office record of both the morning and afternoon attendance.



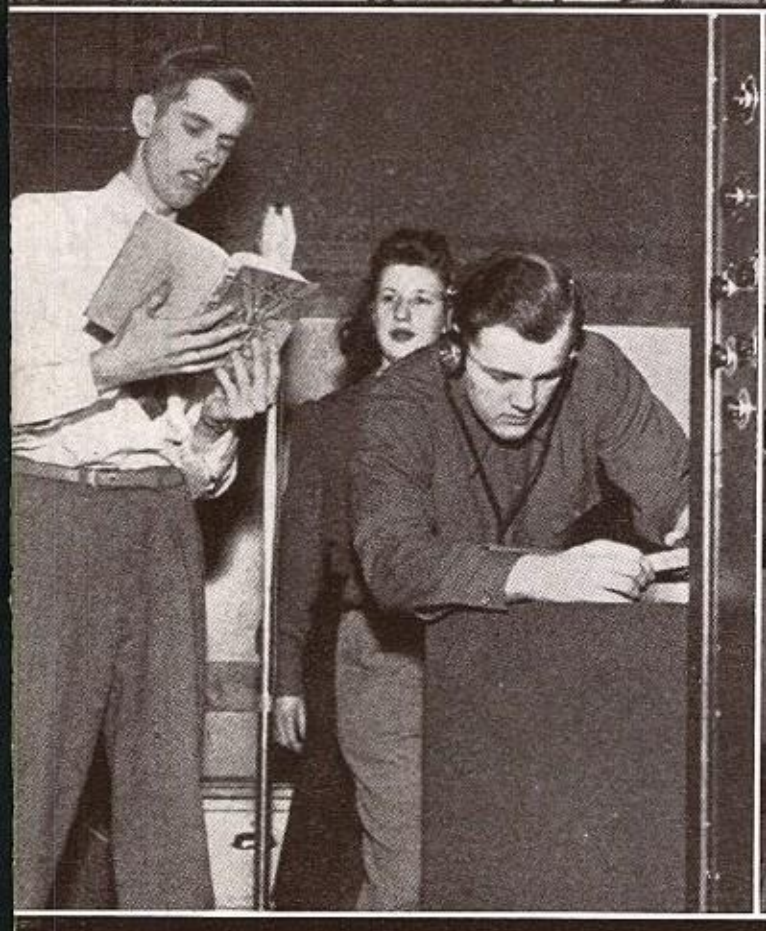
Nancy Scharfenberg, student monitor, assists in the library each day, checking withdrawals and returned books.



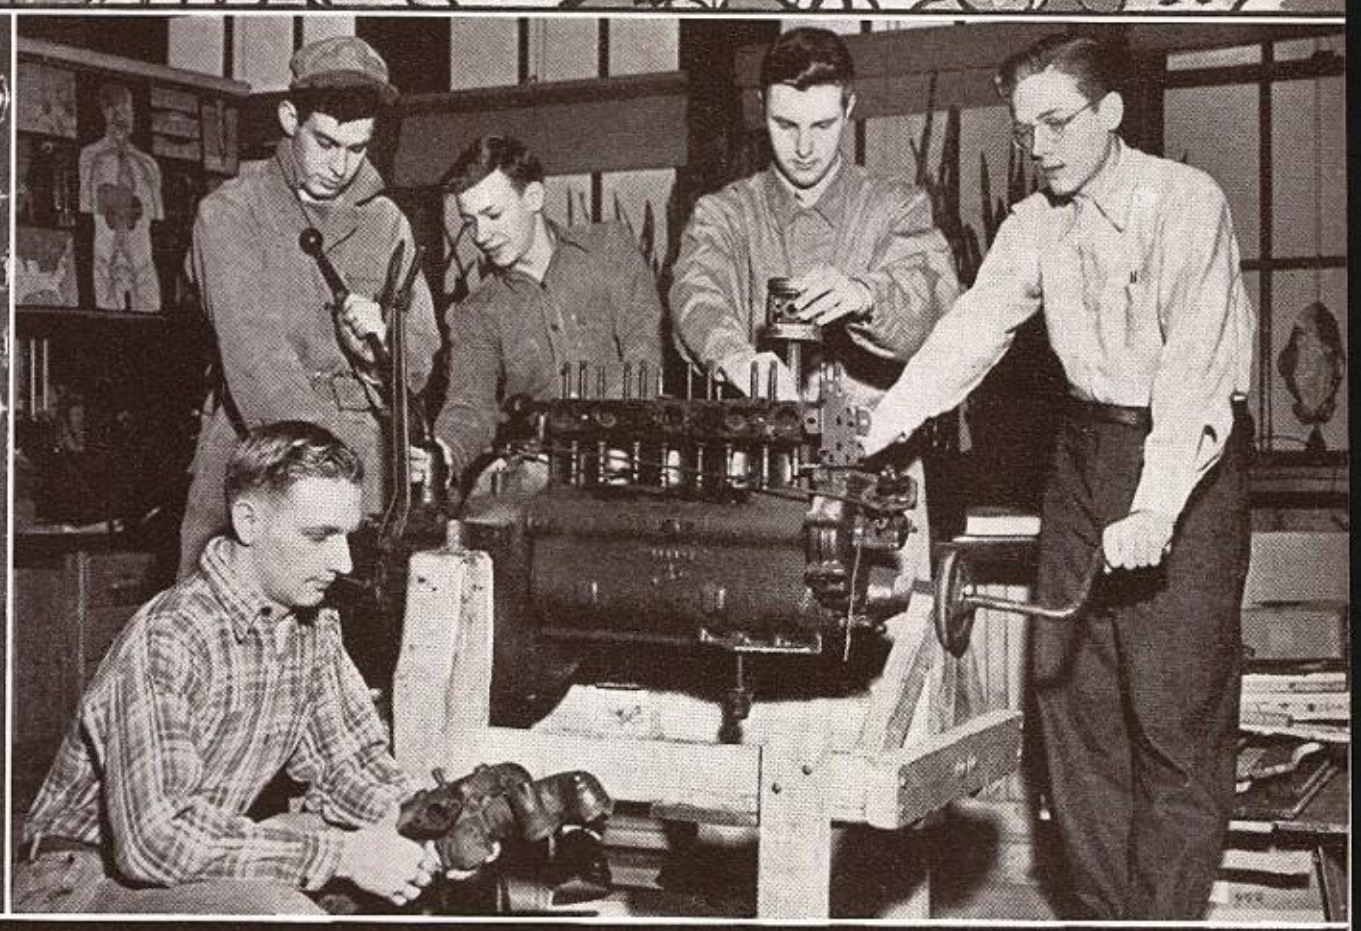
Mrs. Paneitz, Mr. Alberti, Mr. Nuernberger, Mr. Barnett, and Mr Golata are the full-time members of the janitorial staff.

Eleanor Klukowski has charge of the numerous articles brought to the Lost and Found Bureau in the library.

Cooks Pelkhofer and Greuel prepare to feed the hungry in the schoo cafeteria, fourth and fifth hours.



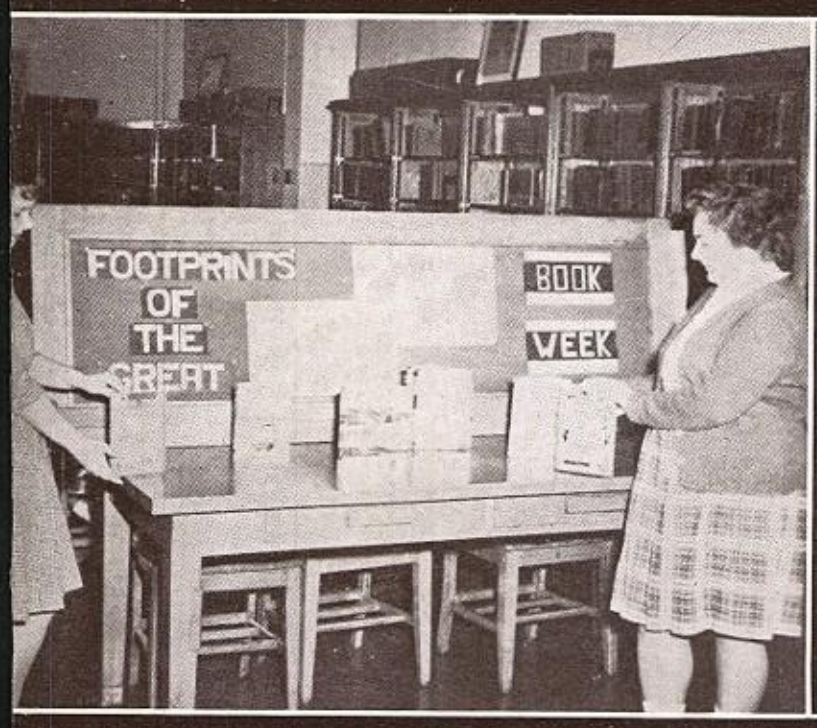
Richard Arndt cuts a record of James Sedivy's voice in the radio booth.



The auto-mechanics of Boys' Club, Don Hofer, Keith Lanza, Donald Johnson, Chuck Ogden, and Francis Hasebrook, work with a motor from an old Maxwell.

Mr. Dennis, Mrs. Arnold, Mr. Gillo, and Miss Zarling are on the first institute panels.

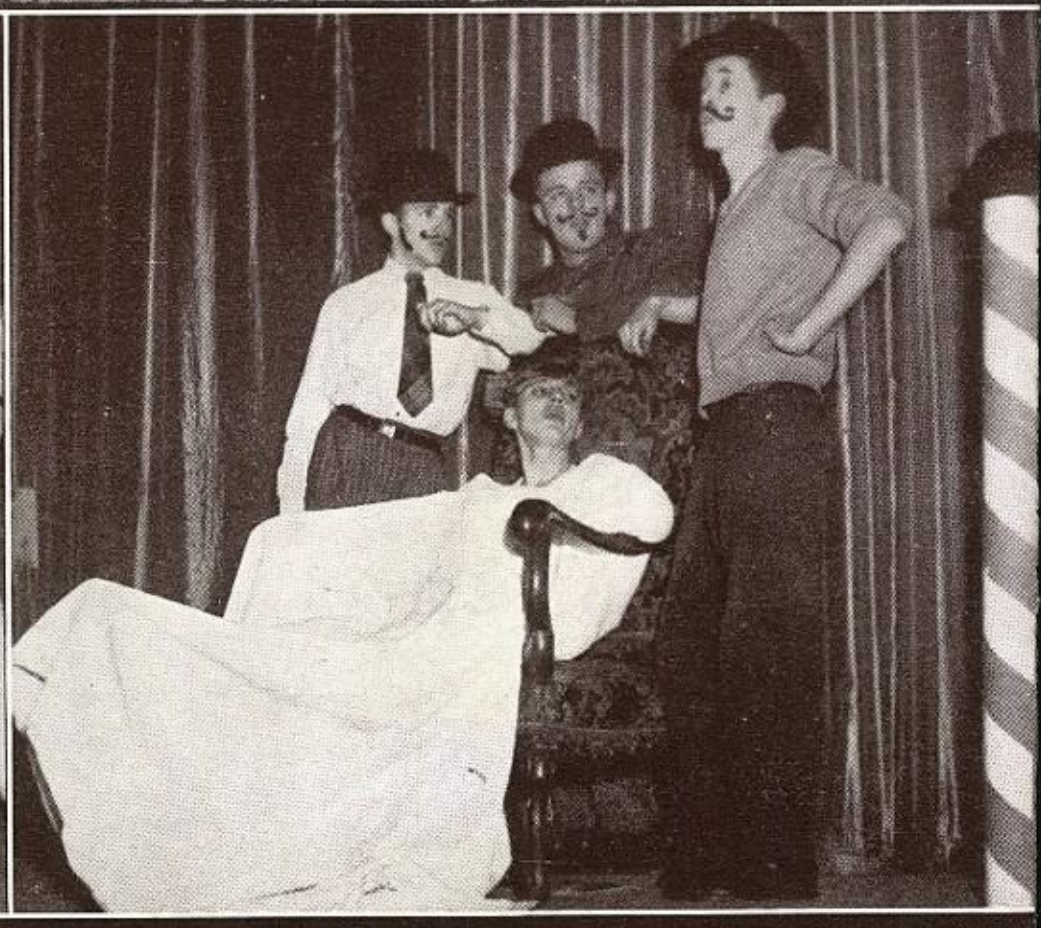
The honor study hall committee, Bill Neer, Mary Ann Poepping, Miss Steel, Arlene Lustig, and Ray Slowik, discuss plans in west study hall.



Nancy Scharfenberg and Eleanor Klukowski prepare some of the displays for "Book Week."

Mr. Whitcomb, Mr. Dietzman, Miss Kohl, and Mr. Wiley take part in the panel discussions at the institute on March 17.

Mr. Summ, with the help of art editors, Charlene Mosser and Barbara Tanner, lays out this year's Oracle Annual.



A barber-shop quartet, Mike Gordon, Richard Arndt, Jim Walsh, Dic Grover, entertains a noon-hour audience for the annual campaign.

The Oracle ad solicitors prepare to sell their school paper to merchants and business men throughout the city.

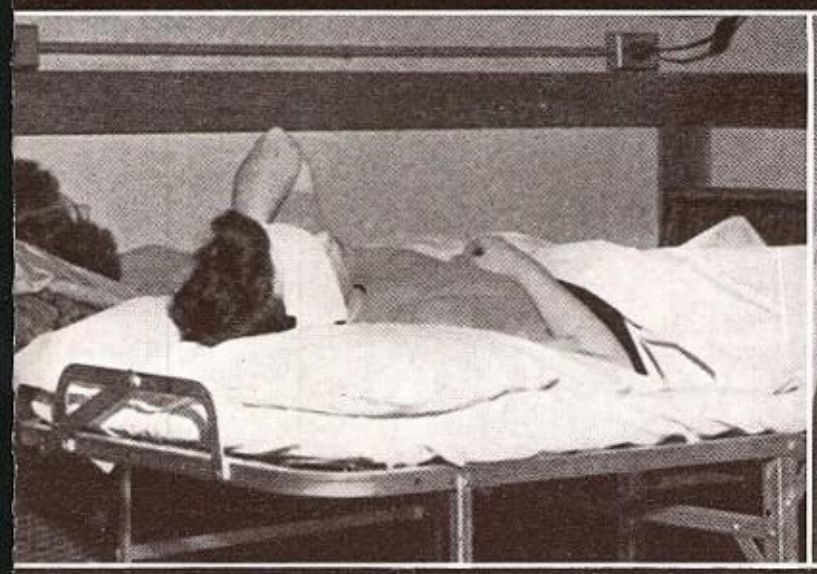
Carol Kleinschmidt, Carol Doepke, and Carol Krause hand out slips t members of the senior band for an annual picture.

Boys from west study hall carry the school newpapers to the Oracle office every other Friday.

Jean McNicol, Shirley Counihan, Wayne Moulder, Miss Lane, Carol Ebe and Eugene Bristow prepare to take pictures of January graduates.

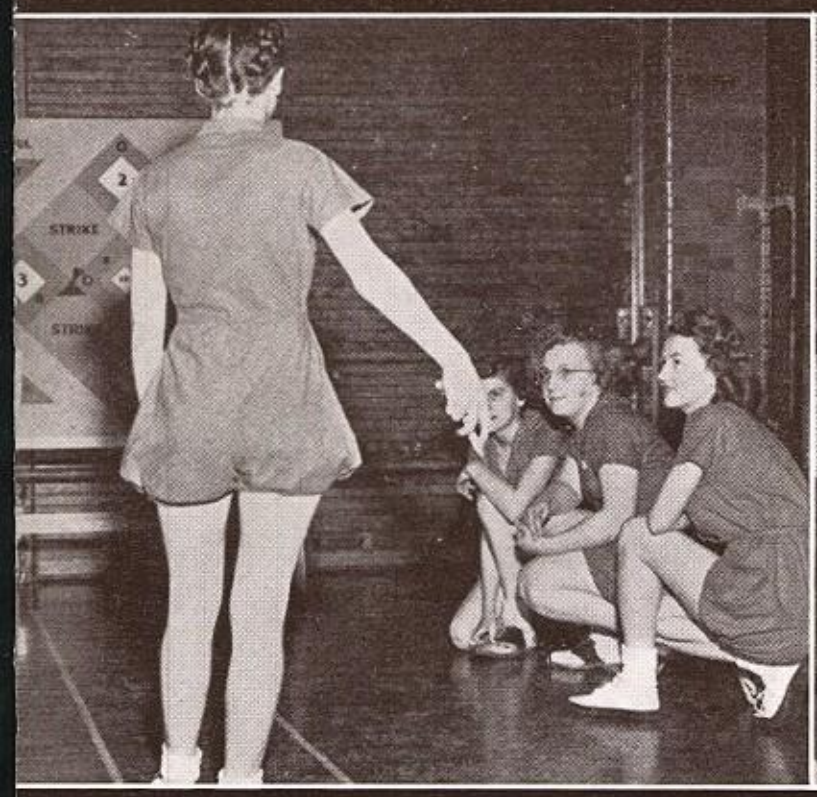
his group of subscription agents contributed to the success of the 1947 Oracle Annual campaign.

The members of Miss Hunt's home nursing class practice proper hospital procedures to be used in the home.

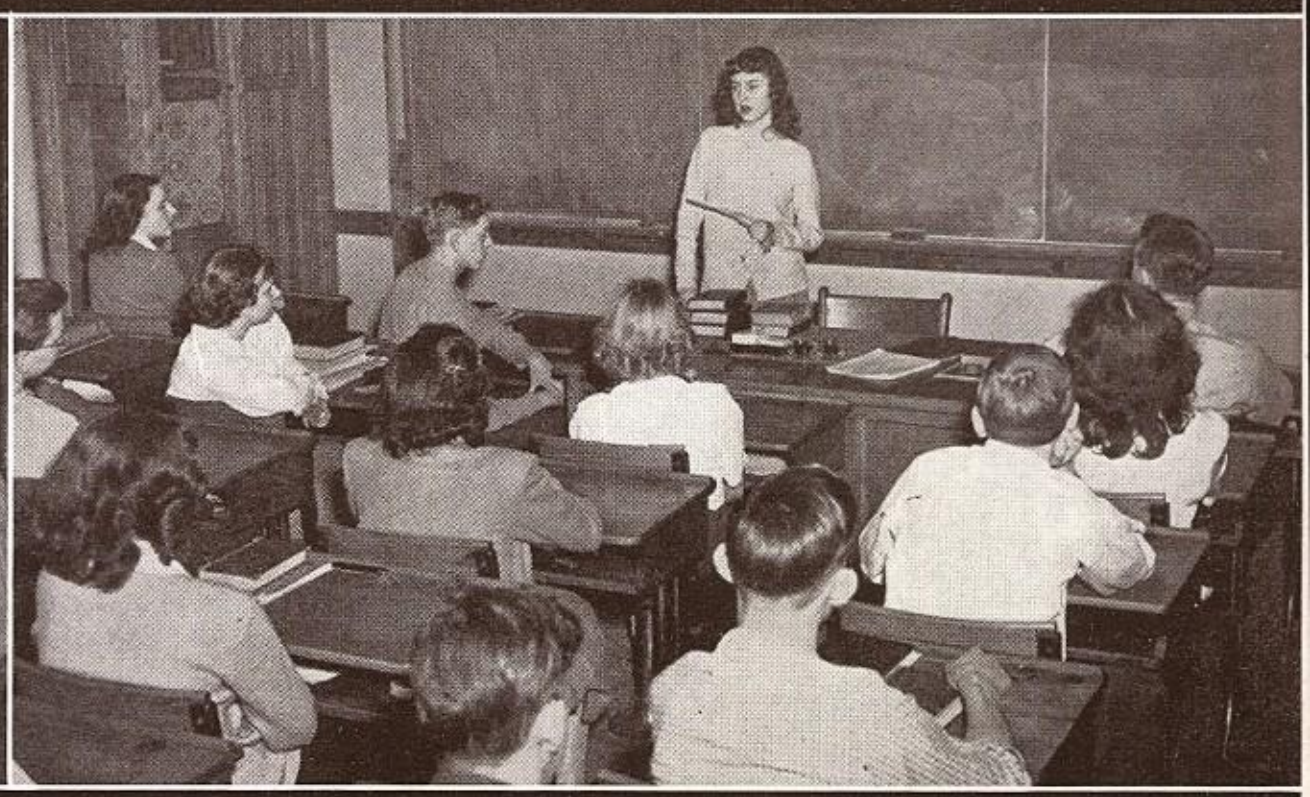


tudents with heart trouble rest in the infirmary during their free periods.

The eleven girls who satisfactorily completed the Red Cross Senior Life Saving Course last fall receive their emblems from Mrs. Arnold.

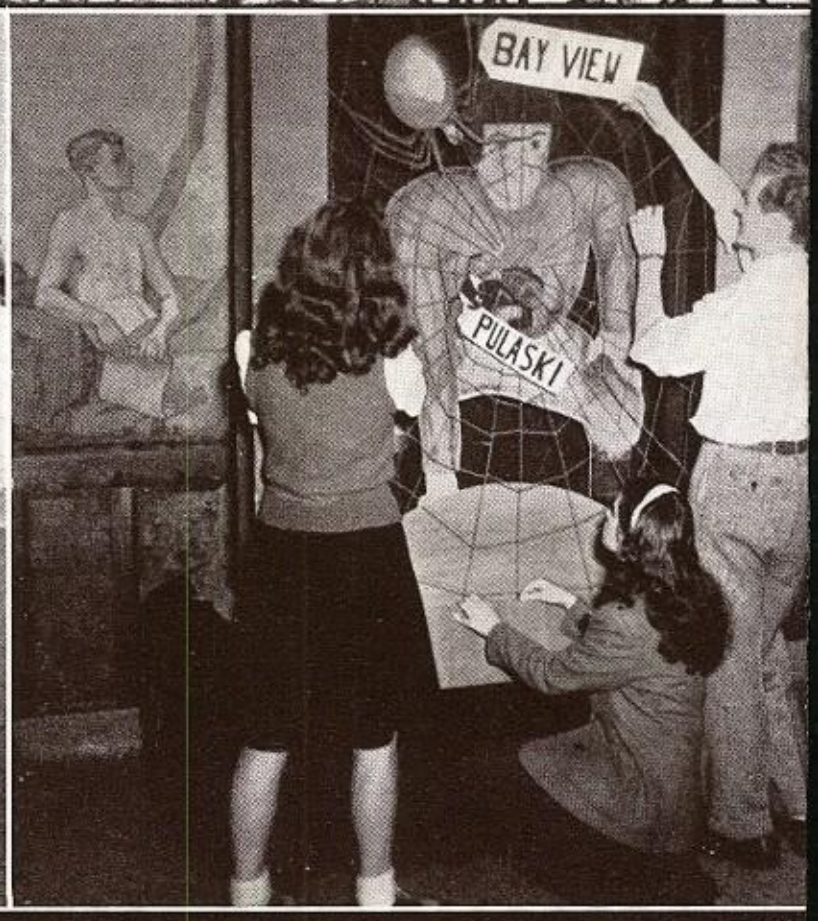


hown playing dart ball are a few of the girls from the corrective gym class.



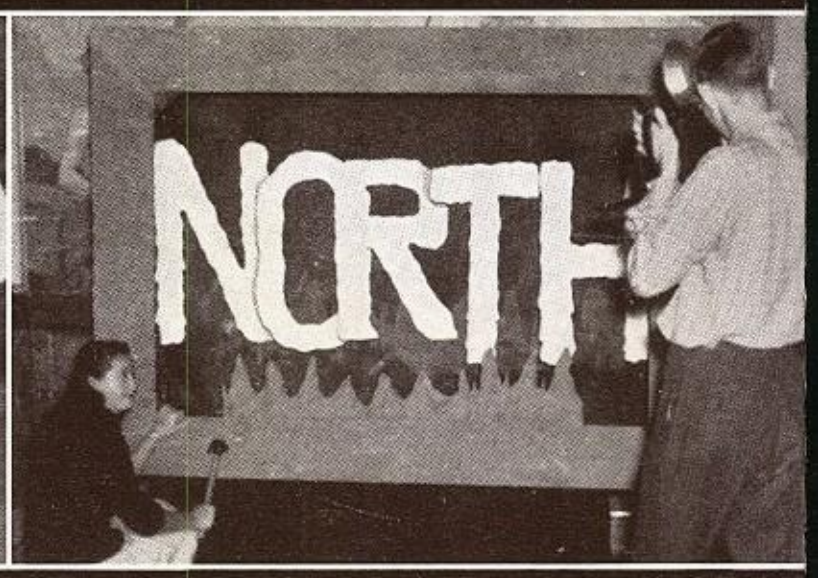
Nancy Watson talks over ideas for editorials for the Oracle newspaper with one of Mr. Whitcomb's English classes.

With the help of Booster Club secretaries, Mr. Sprunger distributes football tickets to homeroom salesmen.



Student artists, Melvin Wood, Nancy Mosser, and Jo Luetzow, build the web to trip Pulaski.

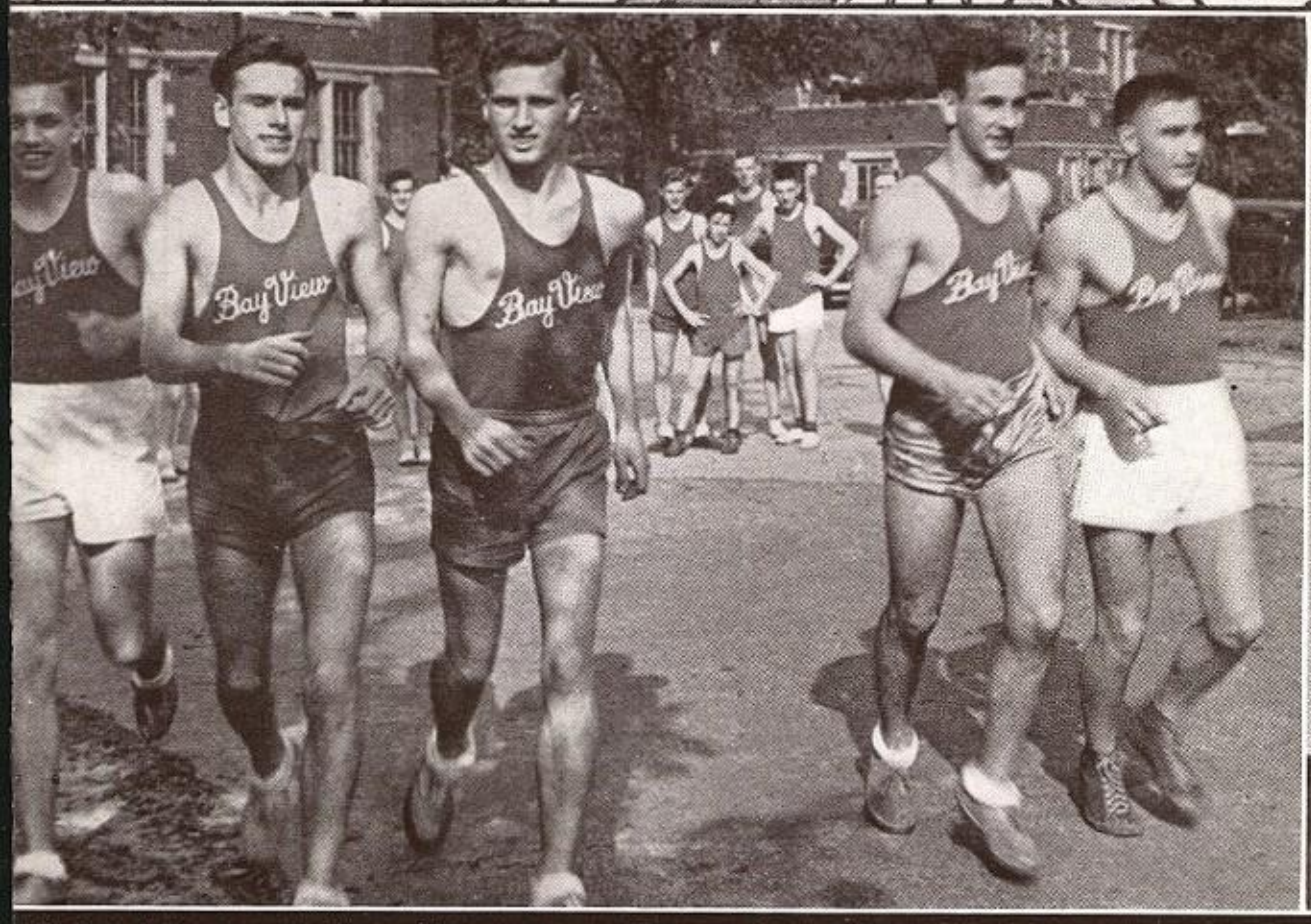
Quarterback Jack Fonaas, '46 football captain, instructs members of the squad in a new play.



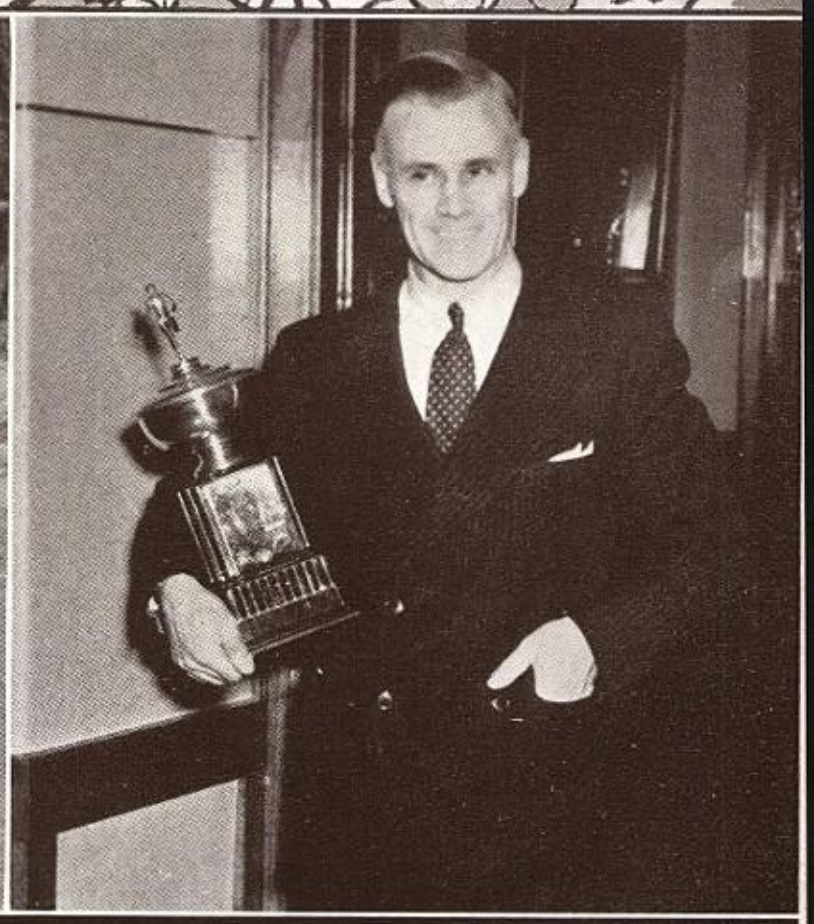
An Oracle photographer, Earl Lenger, catches Joa Luetzow completing this plastic display.

Cheer-leaders selected at a football rally are Wesley LaCourt, Larry Suhm, Glenn Vogt, Gerald Pokorny, Frank Sciples, and Milton Prickett.

Richard Wenzel gives a comedy dance at one of t football rallies.



Fall days bring out the Cross Country men. Here are Lowell Schroeder, Robert Seemayer, Ralph Tesnow, Herman Olm, and Bob Heinz.



Mr. Matthei is pictured with the trophy his cross-country team earned as city champs.

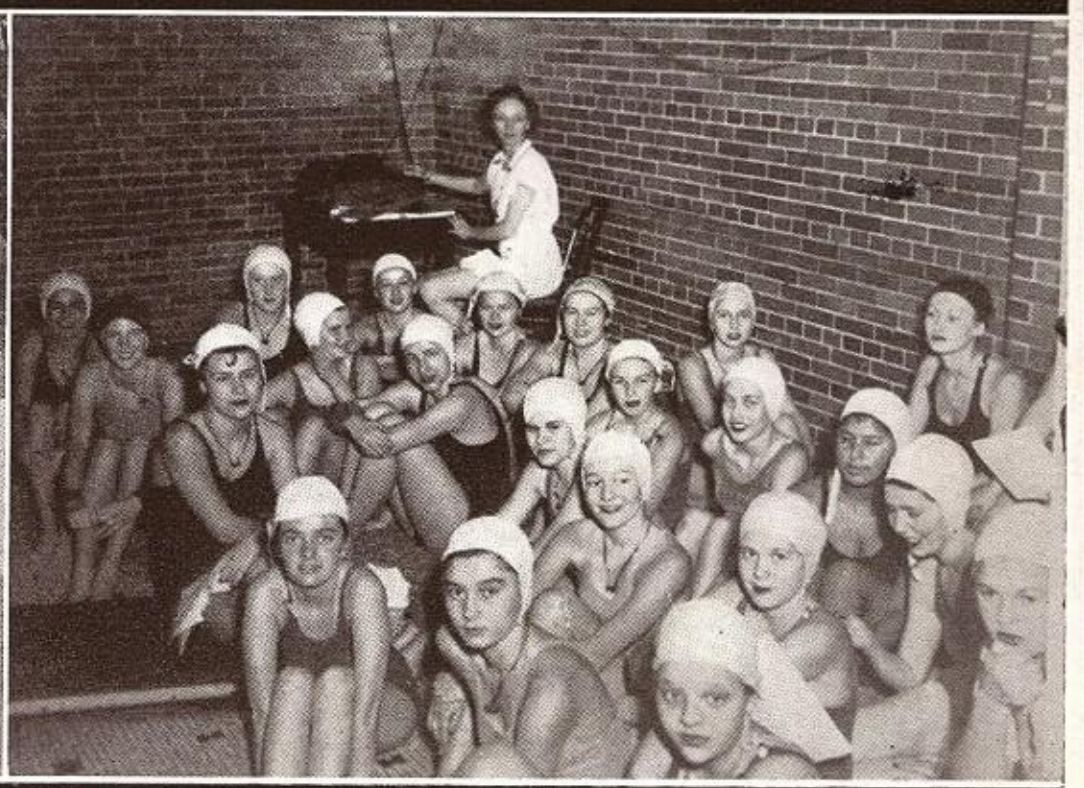
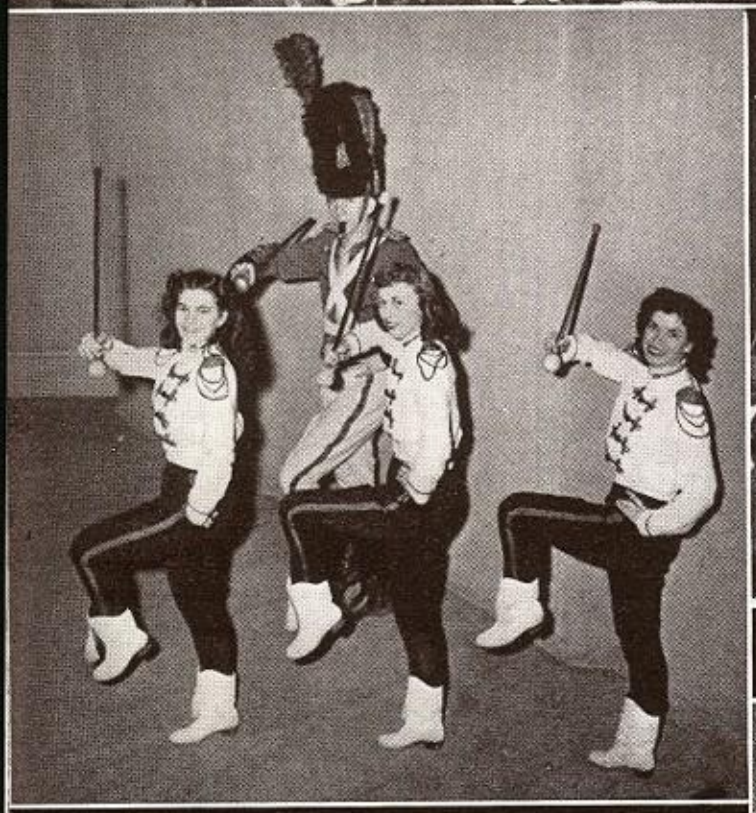
ay Cowden scores for a doubles match in the girls' annual tennis tournament early in the fall.



Members of the Nereids' Club relax for a moment before performing in the annual freshman demonstration.

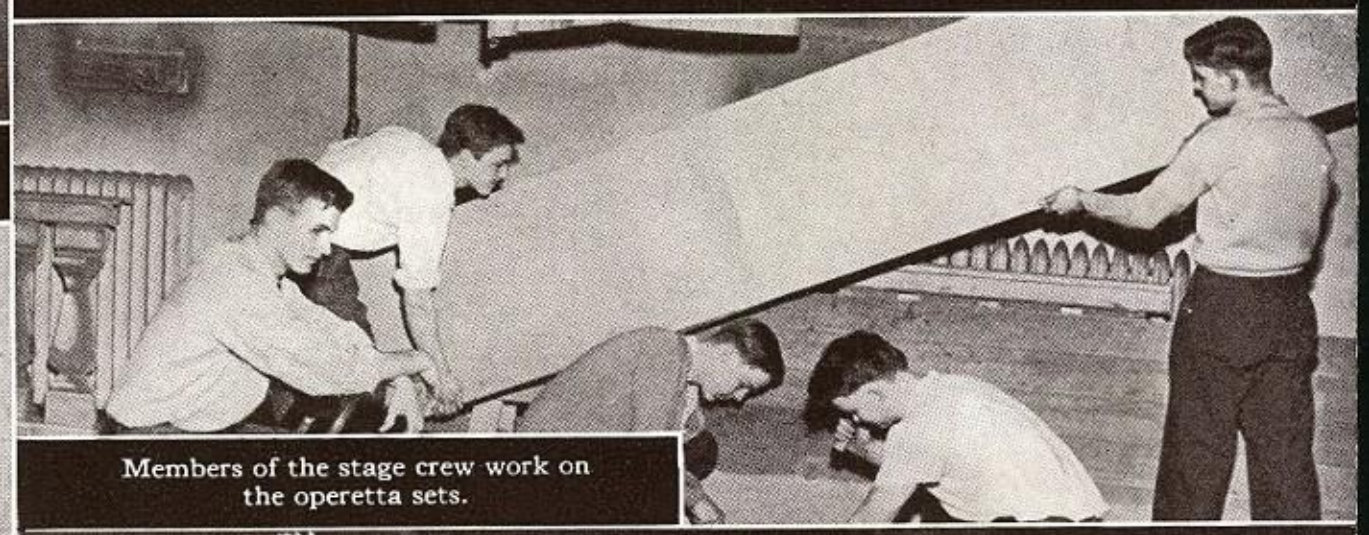
Photographer McCoy snapped this from the balcony on the night of dress rehearsal for "An Old Spanish Custom."



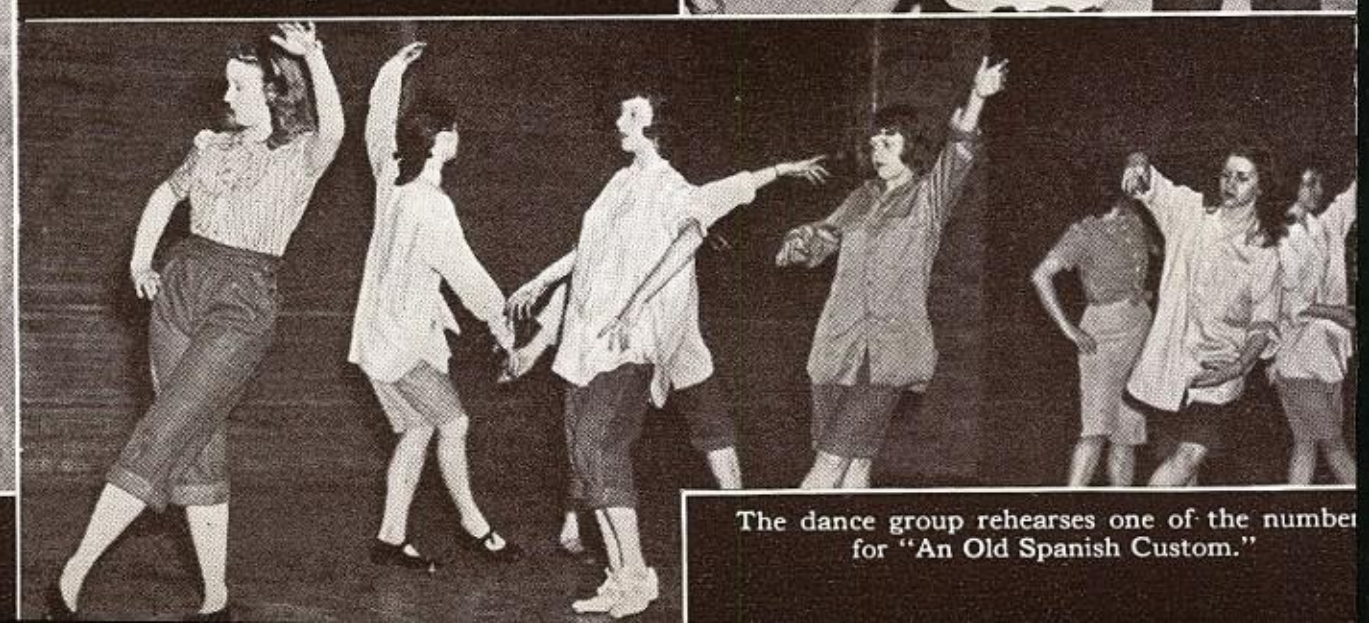
Eldon Hepner, Janis Hansing, Ada Garneau, and Pat Budney led the band this year.

During the weeks before the production, the cast can be found rehearsing in the auditorium almost every night after school.

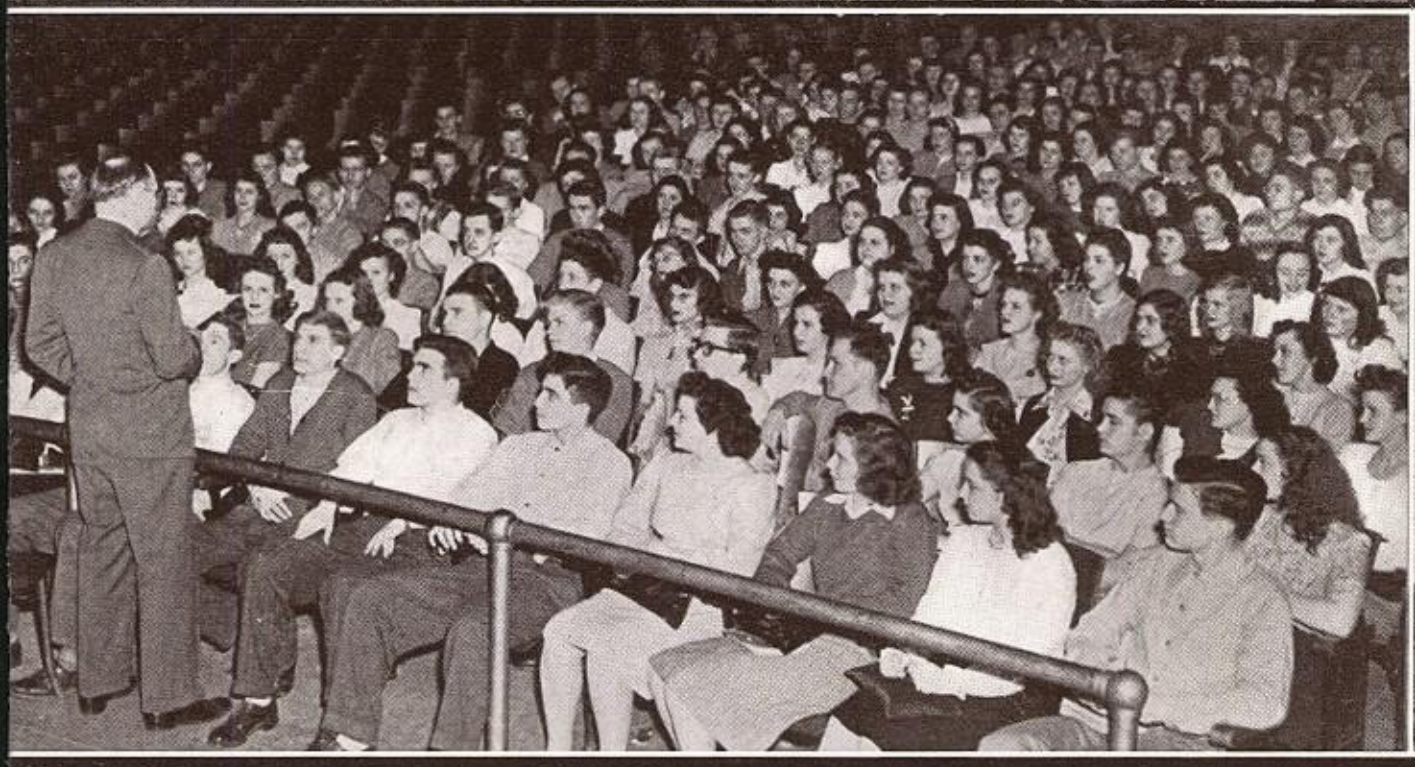
Much of the time at rehearsals is spent back stage, studying lines and waiting for cues.



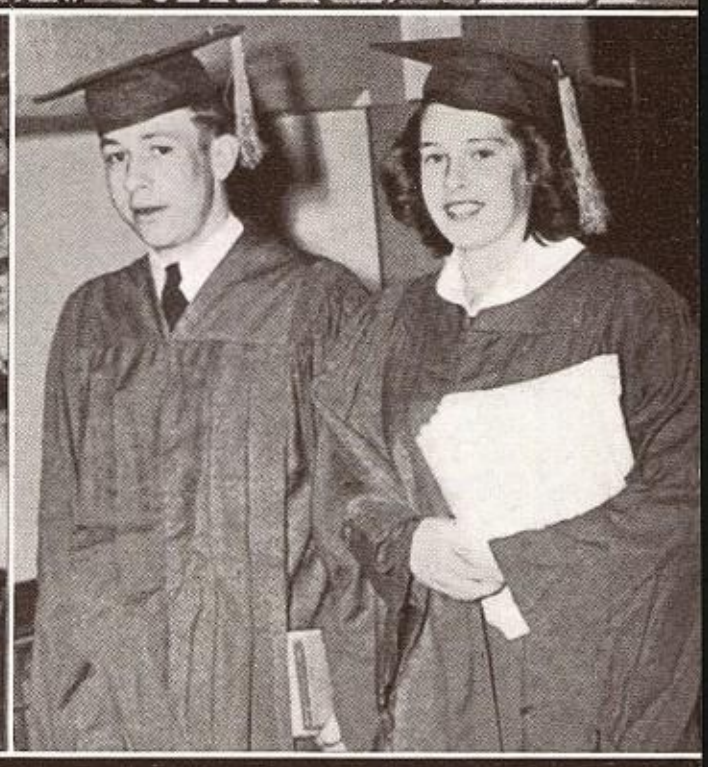
Members of the stage crew work on the operetta sets.



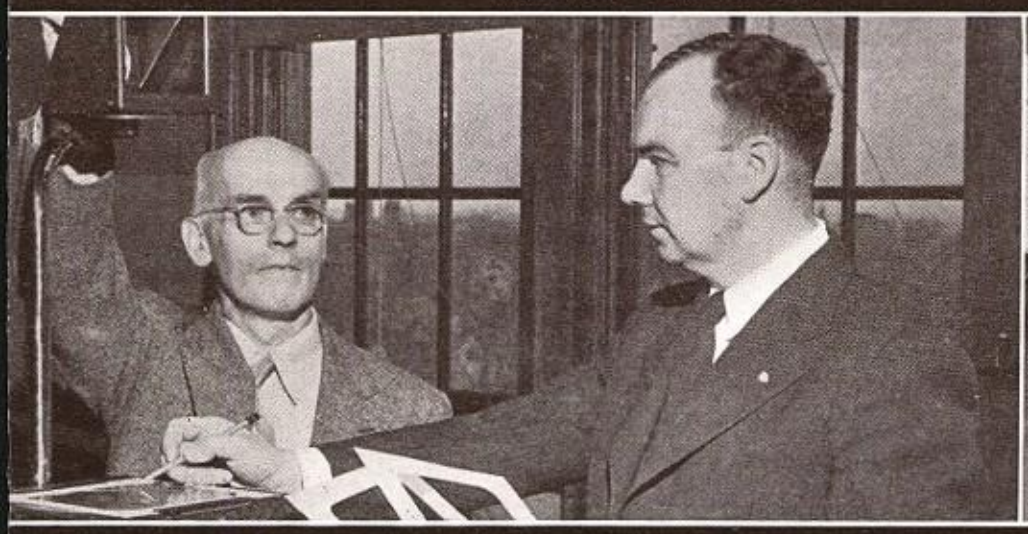
The dance group rehearses one of the number for "An Old Spanish Custom."



This is the response to the announcement, "Members of the June graduating class report to the auditorium."

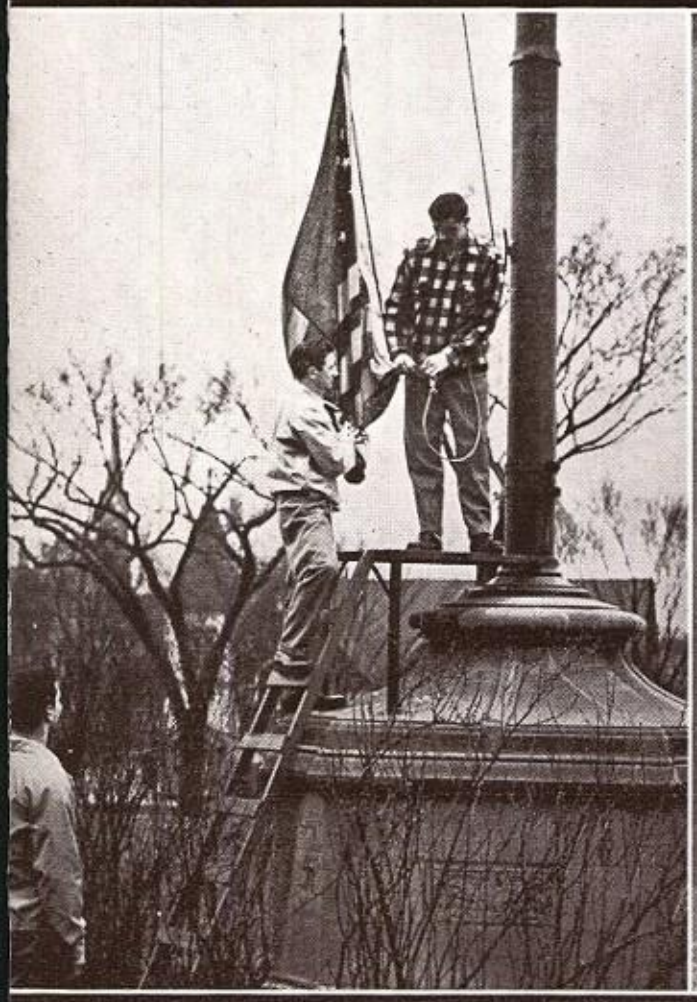


Here are Ruth Naas and Donald Scheuneman on Cap and Gown day before exams.



Mr. Lorentz and Mr. Hickman were the principal speakers at the Audio-Visual Institute, April 21.

People of the community come to Bay View to cast their ballots on voting days.



rchie Durand, Frank Sciples, and Glenn Vogt, take care of the flag every other week.

Another school day is over, and while some girls hurry home, others leisurely gather up their books or chat at their lockers.

THE SCHOOL

Dreaming, studying, thinking—all have their place in the 1947 school pattern at Bay View.

DR. BERNHARD C. KORN

The School in 1947

"The curriculum is more than a course of study—for each child it is the sum of all his experiences which are in any way affected by the school."

This philosophy of education, which puts its emphasis on the living experience of each individual, which insists that the curriculum be never identical for any two, has been dominant at every professional gathering attended by Bay View teachers in the last school year. Indeed, it has become so much a part of their thinking that even at informal bi-monthly faculty meetings, in which teachers have explained to their colleagues either their procedure in the classroom or their part in curricular activities, they have accepted as almost axiomatic the idea that each child should have his chance to develop as completely as he may.

The days of minimum essentials that every child in every class was expected to have mastered by a fateful day marked in advance on the school calendar are definitely no more. Now the primary concern of every teacher is the growth of each child as far as his potentialities admit. That growth will be physical, mental, social. He should not be allowed to develop arrogant selfishness, and he should not miss the training which will help him to become a force in his group, help him to work co-operatively.

The school, seeking to bring about this fullness of development, must recognize the difference in home backgrounds, the difference even for any two children in the same home. It must recognize that the home and innumerable social agencies should function together with the school to effect an adequate adjustment for each individual to the world he alone knows.

And surely no one who looks objectively at the American scene can doubt that the emphasis on the right of the individual to be treated as an individual throughout the years of his formal education is once more an expression of the American way of life, triumphant over all ideologies that would make man the tool of the state and not the master of himself.

ADMINISTRATION

DR. FOX, Vice Principal

Standing back of the counter in the office listening to high-schoolers rationalize away their mistakes and helping them to the right path with kindness and understanding, has been one who, even in his most solemn moments, has never lost entirely the twinkle in his eye.

For over forty years as the scholarly teacher of English, and in the last six years as the vice-principal at Bay View, Dr. Fox has watched youth come and go, and has found in teaching the abiding satisfactions of life. For him the changing scene has always held one constant: there is nothing more important in the task of the teacher than stimulating youth to creating for itself high ideals. The generations that have known his large humanity and found in him both counselor and friend, bear testimony to how well he has met the challenge of that task.

MR. WHITCOMB, Chief Counselor

LIFE ADVISEMENT

Every member of the counseling staff carries in his mind detailed information concerning the students entrusted to him, and helps the homeroom teacher whenever a pupil varies from the pattern for course and semester.

A counselor has visited the grade school before each class comes to Bay View, and has consulted with the eighth grade teacher. He knows exactly how the students entering the freshman class grade on significant tests like the one for algebra aptitude. Then on the basis of the information he has gathered, he plans the program for the student's first semester.

This year the counselors have served as the representatives of the school at lay meetings to which members of the community have been invited for group discussions of the work of the schools.

Each year the editor of The Oracle Annual leaves for his successor a day-by-day record of the work accomplished on the yearbook. Many sections of the book remain much the same from year to year, and the diary of the editor enables his successor to keep up-to-date with layouts, pictures, and copy.

The chief problem of the editor this year grew out of the theme, which attempts to show that, although a modern high school is open to all people, each student is educated as an individual.

THE NEWSPAPER

Before the presses roll every other Thursday, countless students have been involved in the preparation of an Oracle newspaper. And from all of them in some degree the work has required the exercise of judgment.

While the technical knowledge gained in working on the bi-monthly publication may not be used directly by students after graduation, the experience they have had in unearthing facts, in writing clearly, and in working together to bring all the news to the entire school is invaluable.

BOYS' CLUB

Left: Gerald Kieckow, Treasurer; Robert Werner, President; Boynton Nissen, Vice-President; James Morrison, Seargeant-at-Arms; Warren Dumke, Secretary

Active participation by all, instead of performance by a select few was the keynote of the program of Boys' Club this year. Although it is a large organization, the division into sections, the sponsors hope, gives each individual an opportunity to develop his own personality and show initiative and the qualities of leadership.

The groups are so diversified that almost any interest of growing boys finds an outlet. Those boys who are old timers in a section train and direct the newcomers without active participation by any teacher.

Larry Suhm, President; James Smith, Sergeant-at-Arms; Leonard Loffredo, Secretary; Dick Fox, Treasurer; James Szulczewski, Vice-President

BOYS' CLUB

All the different summer sports are represented in sections of the club: baseball, golf, tennis, and yachting. There is a ping-pong division, a chess division, a wrestling group, a dancing class, a drivers' training section, a handbalancing group, and an auto mechanics group.

In this last division, before boys can work on the motors, those enrolling must pass nomenclature, carburetion, and ignition tests. The instructions for these and the tests themselves are given by the boys.

Each semester a new group of freshman girls enters Bay View. They are usually shy, and their friendships are limited to a small circle of classmates whom they see every day. They probably long to meet new friends, and find in Girls' Club the opportunity they seek, for the club, meeting every other week, brings girls from all classes together for a pleasant period of good fellowship. At these meetings, planned by the girls themselves, programs of general interest are presented, and any talent discovered among the girls is immediately brought to light.

The constant variety of entertainment which is furnished makes every meeting stand out as something really special, whether it presents a style show, a comedy skit, a talent show, a dance, or a speech. Highlights of the past year were a discussion of charm and personality by Nancy Cantrell of the YWCA, a novelty shadow show, and the annual dance.

In Girls' Club every girl meets her 740 best friends at Bay View.

FOREIGN LANGUAGE CLUB

FOREIGN LANGUAGE CLUB

Foreign Language Club has served its two masters for two more semesters: it has brought together the members of the language classes on an educational and social plane, and it has provided high-grade lectures and movies for its membership and for the whole school. Through the club, foreign language students have an opportunity to learn more than just the language —they learn something of the culture and history of foreign countries.

In line with this end, two programs of special interest to the Spanish section were presented this year. "My summer in Mexico" by Dr. Fox was a fresh, first-hand account of traveling and sight-seeing in Mexico. And Robert Friers, a world wanderer whose movies of Mexico's new volcano are recognized as the best ever taken, was booked through the prolonged efforts of Miss Miller.

At the meetings of the Latin and Spanish section "Mount Vesuvius" and "Fire and Water" were the subjects discussed. The German and French sections were very active in providing for the entire club a large share of the program entertainment in the form of playlets.

Food, music, speeches, and good cheer were dispensed at the annual Christmas banquet of the club in the cafeteria. Miss Elizabeth Burnham, Y.W.C.A. director, spoke of her recent travels.

ROUND TABLE

Round Table, the oldest of Bay View clubs, still kept alive its traditions in 1947. There was, for example, the usual Thanksgiving Day program, the usual Halloween dance with cider and doughnuts.

"X" CLUB

Dolores Bolan, Vice-President; William Reise, President; Jean Whitcomb, Scribe; Geraldine Tarczynski, Recorder

Students who receive a ninety in class standings automatically become members of Bay View's famous X Club. This exclusive organization does not offer a "stuffy," purely educational program, but one designed to give its members a good time and help them to be well-rounded individuals.

Each semester a program featuring some nationally-known adventurer, traveler, or lecturer is presented for the enjoyment of the school, and a 9B program is planned to help correct incoming freshmen's study habits and start them on the right foot for their high school career.

If a visitor noticed an unwonted degree of activity in room 410 during the ninth hour on Wednesday, the explanation is simple. It is then that members of X Club coach any typing students who desire to improve their grades.

Each club member on the tutoring staff is regularly responsible for teaching four students. As a result of this service, the class work of the student-trained typists has improved appreciably, and those doing the teaching have perfected their own skill by analyzing the weakness of others.

SCIENCE CLUB

Council—Semester II: Roland Lesniewski, Robert Traver, Robert Risch, Jack Braun, James Noll, Kenneth Schweig

Gerold Albrecht, Manager; Tom Torphy, Assistant Manager

The Science Club is organized to give the science student the opportunity to exercise his talents and interests in scientific fields beyond the regular classwork.

These interests are well provided for in the various sections of the club: General Science, Naturalist, Home Gardening, Chemistry, Aeronautics, Camera and Electronics. Because of the comparatively small number of members, between 20 and 30 in each section, the students are allowed greater freedom with the use of the school's facilities than they have in class and are encouraged to learn by doing.

With the end of the war, field trips were again undertaken and the advisor teachers arranged excursions to many interesting spots in the city, among them the Telephone Exchange.

The club also tries to broaden the scientific background of its members by bringing demonstrations and speakers for general meetings. The programs were on such subjects as radar, light, reptiles, and the firemen's rescue squad.

ART CLUB

Some of the highlights of the Art Club program of this year were a sculpturing demonstration by Dick Wiken, well-known artist and wood-carver; a comprehensive talk on "Art in the Theater" by Mr. Sherkow, former speech teacher at Bay View; and an illustrated talk on the "Beauties of Spain" by Miss Miller.

Programs presented in the auditorium to the entire student body were a marionette show, a Christmas movie, and a talk on color by Mr. Pelikan, Director of Art Education in Milwaukee Public Schools.

STUDENT ARTISTS

SERVICE CLUB

To promote student government and to be of real service to the school is the object of Bay View's newest organization, the Service Club. Founded during Semester I, this club is composed of the members of the original Victory Corps, and a representative from each homeroom.

The Service Club functioned in two capacities this past year: in the organization of the Building Usher Corps, and in the introduction of the Honor Study Halls at Bay View.

The Service Club has as its aim the building of a better Bay View, a school community governed in large part by the students themselves.

USHERS' CLUB

The usher crews, clad in shiny red and black, conduct Bay View audiences to their seats and help to maintain the decorum for which the public performances at Bay View are well known. Under the direction of Mr. Osterndorf they function at every convocation of the year.

ANNOUNCERS

The news of the day as far as Bay View is concerned is brought to all the students every morning and afternoon by a staff of announcers. It is the task of the chief announcer to organize his group so that everybody on it knows when he is to read to the school.

Each piece of copy heard over the air has been approved by Dr. Korn, and is kept on file in the radio booth.

PROJECTION CREW

The visual education equipment is handled by a group of well-trained students giving efficient service to faculty members aware of the usefulness of visual education in the classroom. Their work and that of the radio crew is ably supervised by Mr. Lorentz.

Donald Schoenhaar, Bert Sjostrom, Manager; James Sedivy, Assistant Manager; James Stelloh, Merlin Kottke, Thomas Reise, Leonhard Rose

RADIO CREW

Every morning and afternoon in a small room across the hall from the office, a group of students may be found who have assumed the responsibility for handling the public address system at Bay View. It is their task to see that the panel is in working order so that daily messages may be sent over the air to every one.

SPOT CREW

Because of the purchase of the arc lamp projector, this year members of the spot crew have shown the auditorium movies in addition to handling all the movable spotlights for school performances. Mr. Hickman and Mr. Lorentz are in charge of the crew.

STAGE CREW

"The asbestos is going up"—that cry from frightened performers in the wings is familiar to every member of the stage crew. Under the capable direction and instruction of Mr. Weller, the boys take part in every school entertainment, whether it be a club program or an all-school operetta.

FINAL SCENES—CLASS PLAY

A wealth of experience and fun—that's what the 1946 class play meant. It was fun for the prop committee, the costume committee, the stage crew, the cast. And above all, it was fun for the school that as an audience, watched the trials the Stanleys had with their famous guest, "The Man Who Came to Dinner."

"AN OLD SPANISH CUSTOM"

Long hours of preparation by the cast of "An Old Spanish Custom" were rewarded when two packed houses applauded the operetta May 3 and 4.

The story concerned a veteran who, as a result of a plane crash in France, had suffered temporary amnesia. On recovering and returning home, he discovered his rancho in the possession of unscrupulous Easterners. To regain his property he posed as a helpless weakling by day, and led a posse of masked riders at night.

BAND

Always ready to supply pep for football games and convocations, the band has played spirited music throughout the year. In addition to the usual full band numbers the group furnished many interesting features. At the home coming, gas balloons carried the BV sign above the stands. And at the music festival Robert Knutzen and his trombone held the spotlight for the band.

The senior orchestra not only plays for school functions, but also sends its ensemble to entertain at various group meetings in the community.

The most important performance for the orchestra is always at the music festival. The featured number of the evening was the Rachmanioff concerto played by Marilyn Harbold.

Under the direction of Miss Conley, the members of the orchestra learn to play well, and acquire a working knowledge of harmony.

FOOTBALL

Captain Fonaas

In a season marked with many close contests and thrilling moments, the gridmen under the capable direction of coaches Schoeller and Mierzwa played an enlarged schedule with all but one contest under the lights. With victories over Boys' Tech, Pulaski, and South, the 1946 Bay View football team became champions of the south section of the city.

LEAVING THE BUILDING

Coach Matthei led the hill and dalers through another successful season marked by seven dual victories and the city championship. After taking a close meet from King, the thinclads raced through their schedule, downing all the city teams in swift succession.

The Bays easily won the south side meet, and the next week they squeezed out a one point triumph over Washington to win the city championship. For some unknown reason, the whole squad slipped badly in the state meet and finished seventh.

The B squad won all their dual meets and finished second in the city.

BASKETBALL

After defeating Reedsville, the 1946 State basketball champions, and both Sheboygan and West Bend, the Nelsonmen opened the 1946-'47 conference basketball season with a one point defeat handed them by South Division and then bounded back to the win column with victories over Juneau and Boys' Tech. But the luck of the Bays did not hold and they failed to capture another conference contest.

"A" TEAM

A surprise package deluxe was what Coach Crawford had in store for rival schools for the 1946-47 swimming season. He started with a nucleus of five lettermen, but his team gained in power until two weeks before the city meet they upset their traditional rivals, Pulaski.

The Bays had an undefeated conference record, but aside from their captain, Bud Sciples, they had no outstanding individual performers. Bay View placed third in the City meet and eighth in the State.

After defeating the Alumni 56-48, the 1947 track team opened the conference season against a highly favored Lincoln squad. The outcome of the meet hung in the balance, but the final one-half mile relay, which the Viewites won, gave them the ultimate victory, 60½ to 52½. High scorers were Jerry Kieckow, Jim Szulczewski, Eddie Wagner and Bob Seemayer.

In the south side championships the Viewites placed second. They scored heavily on the track, taking six of eight firsts. First place winners were Ed Wagner and Jim Szulczewski in the dashes, Bill Dundas and Jerry Kieckow in the hurdles, and Jack Quinlan in the mile. The crack Viewite relay squad again won.

The Bay team went on to the relay carnivals and the state and city meets.

VOLLEY BALL CHAMPS

Last fall about thirty girls participated in the annual tennis tournament. The final game of the singles was won by Mary Ann Poepping who regained her title of singles champion.

In the doubles tournament Jean McNicol and Mary Ann Poepping were the victors.

As usual, volley ball was enjoyed by many girls in the girls' gym. At the end of the season Jerrek's Jugglers defeated the Kilroy Killers in a hard fought game. The girls on the championship team were Vivian Bogs, Joan Findlay, Connie Liber, Ruth Jarke, Audrea Kleinschmidt, Vivian Maciejewski, Marge Meredith, Joanne Olsen, Jane Plennes, Pat Nield, Irene Makuter, Arlene Lustig and Norma Rettman.

The winning team of this year's inter-mural basketball tournament was captained by Jane Plennes. They defeated Kay Nelson's team to end the season with a perfect record of wins unmarred by any defeat. The players on the championship team were Marge Meredith, Marilyn Evans, Peggy Evans, May Puder, Gerry Czajkowski, Joan Findlay, Ruth Koscielniak, and Jane Plennes.

The badminton championship was copped by Mary Ann Poepping and Carol Halvorsen. Co-runners in the finals were Jane Plennes and Barbara Barr.

CLASS NOTES

The January graduating class of 1947 tasted war, thrilled to victory, and knew the slower tempo of peace. At commencement Carol Ebert summed up the class activities in these words: "A leading citizen has called the mid-year graduating class of 1947 'the last of the war babies.' We have been active in war work and have had no time for self-analysis. But now the let-down has begun and there is opportunity to view ourselves and the problems of the world objectively."

On January 29, while outside the worst storm in twenty-three years swept Milwaukee, Bay View held most informal graduation exercises. Mrs. Garling, graduating homeroom advisor, and several graduates were left stranded in their homes, but the class voted to hold the exercises.

The close of the program brought about a new problem—that of getting home! To all stranded teachers, graduates, and visitors the Bay View High School and community became a sanctuary for that night and for the two memorable days that followed.

On an eventful day in February, 1943, a long line of little "green" freshmen filed into the rows and seats of West 5-8. During the war years, several boys left to serve with the armed forces, and all West loyally supported the war effort.

With students on the football, track, basketball, cross country, tennis, badminton, and swimming teams, sports were definitely a part of the homeroom life. In addition to sports, with several students as officers, the various clubs of the school were well represented.

Life Advisement periods were almost more fun than routine in West. Discussions, debates, speeches, parties, and picnics helped to acquaint fellow classmates with one another.

West 5-8 was proud of their announcers, Oracle workers, class play participants, class commission representative and—proud of its war bond record.

MR. CRAWFORD 319

February 3, 1943, was a red-letter day for many of the grade school graduates who gathered in room 214, where they were to become classmates and fast friends. Little did they know then that, unlike most students, they would come under the guidance of three homeroom teachers rather than one: namely, Miss Landwehr, now at Custer; Mr. Book, transferred to Humboldt Park, and Mr. Crawford, of 319.

Many mark days proved significant for 319, for they had the honor plaque every time except twice. When freshmen, they were awarded the Pledge of Allegiance banner for outstanding sales in War Bonds and Stamps. This inspired them to participate in the many other war activities of the school, such as collecting paper for the drives, bringing clothing for the war relief, and knitting for the Red Cross.

Though the homeroom had three teachers, 319 at graduation was still composed of the majority of students that entered in 1943. Several of the boys left for the Armed Forces during the war years, and in 1947, Homeroom 319 welcomed back one to complete his course and graduate with them.

They proudly say that unity was "enrolled" in their homeroom for four years, for everyone was helpful, cheerful, and willing to work together.

MRS. GARLING 232

Homeroom 232 boasts that its members have managed to get into everything, including the school office. They had in their group the 1946 football and cross country captains—people to be proud of. Not only that, but they had officers of Girls' and Boys' Club, Oracle reporters and typists, and some talent that performed in all the operettas. They didn't receive the plaque often, but they were an ambitious homeroom nevertheless—two of their members even were graduated ahead of their time.

Bay View holds many memories for Homeroom 232, both good and bad—the good ones being memories of the first football game, the last homecoming parade, the Christmas programs, the vacations, the friends they made; and the bad ones including the ninth hours, the examinations, and the look the vice-principal gave when he read, "Please excuse this week's absences due to a severe headache." Yes, Homeroom 232 has many memories!

Ralph Van Beck, Mary Costello, John Cheslock, Ralph Tesnow. Seated: Fredrick Bailey

One February morning, after four busy, memorable years, two hundred sixty-nine seniors met in the auditorium for the first time as the graduating class of June, 1947. High school days were rapidly coming to an end and there seemed so much yet to be done.

Backgrounds for senior pictures provided an unusual problem, for the unseasonable weather of a snowy March and April did little to form the desirable June atmosphere! The excitement of choosing the Class Commission ended with the election of Fredrick Bailey, Mary Ellen Costello, John Cheslock, Ralph Tesnow, and Ralph Van Beck. Yes, the strong, silent "men" were to have a word at last. Class activities were climaxed by the decision to contribute a one-hundred dollar bond to the Bay View War Memorial.

After the whirl of final examinations, homeroom parties, and the senior banquet, graduation day, June 19, finally arrived. The commencement program included a panel of four graduates who discussed the benefits of extra-curricular activities, and as the graduates, six of whom were veterans of World War II, received their long-awaited diplomas, a book entitled "High School Days, 1943-1947" slowly closed.

MR. DENNIS 426

Homeroom 426 could well be called the "melting pot" of Bay View. Through the years, each student had two or more homeroom teachers . . . mostly more. With students continually joining or leaving the group, it was difficult for them to pursue any project as many other homerooms did.

The "police squad," which consisted of two homeroom boys, could not possibly be forgotten—especially not by victims. The chief duty of this squad was to round-up forgetful students who had forgotten to report for ninth hours with Mr. Dennis.

June days may have been longed for by some students, but the girls of 426 were not too enthusiastic when bees, a hobby of Mr. Dennis, were not respectors of study hours. Flying plant lice did not help the situation either. June, though, did produce an abundance of flowers along the windows and these "blessings" helped to overcome the odors of pickled frogs and dead crabs.

In spite of an unusual environment, the members of 426 regretfully walked out of their homeroom for the last time on June 19.

MISS FREUND 334

Homeroom 334, or the "lost sheep," got off to a slow start in September, 1943, when as freshmen they waited two days for a teacher who happened to be waiting for them on the floor above. This was the beginning of Miss Freund's Brigadiers or just "dears."

As freshmen they were immediately taken into activities because of the school's intensely active war program. Paper drives, bond drives, clothing campaigns, and Red Cross knitting were the things in which they excelled. In their sophomore and junior years they were second to none in the making of afghans, completing a record number of eleven.

There were star members of the swimming team, girls' basketball team, and life saving corps; members of X Club; officers of Boys' Club, and Round Table; cheer leaders, singers, dancers, actors, musicians. The homeroom was proud of the varied activities.

The students of 334 will always remember the German phrases often accompanying their study when students came into the homeroom for special help. Conversational favorites such as "bitte," "ja," "nein," "Fraeulein," and "Seien Sie dock still," will linger as one of the remembrances of the four years spent in room 334.

MR. FRITSCHE W—17-20

Standing: Russell Buske, Ruth Zeidlhack, Donald Beutin, Patricia Hilton, Ruth Brady. Seated: Mr. Fritsche

Life in a study hall homeroom, especially in West 17-20, was an unforgetable experience. To the thirty-six students who lived there for four years, life has indeed been varied.

Memorable experiences include the last Christmas party in the chemistry lab, roasting wieners over the Bunsen burners, and presenting Mr. Fritsche with a harmless kiddie chemical set.

But life in West has not been all play. The group is proud of having often had the X Club plaque. Some members of the homeroom have held offices in many of Bay View's clubs and have participated in both boys' and girls' athletics. Others have taken part in operettas and class plays or have been active on the radio, stage, and usher crews.

With the entrance of newly painted blackboards, exit lights, sound-proof radiators, and two freshman homerooms, West 17-20 realized that their four-year stay was almost over.

MISS HUNT W—9-12

Miss Hunt, Ralph Tesnow, Carol Kleinschmidt, Carol Krause, Robert Kant, Betty Trybala

A study hall homeroom for four eventful years was West 9-12. At the sound of the teasing words, "Hi there, freshies," the members of this homeroom had a real reason to shudder, for as freshmen they resided in not one but both study halls.

Homeroom teachers changed with the years. A record number of four guided West 9-12, Miss Hunt being the last.

Life Advisement always meant holding discussions with sewing machines, stoves, refrigerators, and sinks as background. The homeroom teachers were from the Home Economics Department and their rooms provided the "appropriate" atmosphere for sessions of Life Advisement.

Busily engaged in most activities, West 9-12 had club officers, football stars, track-men, Oracle workers, and ushers. Despite the restricted life which a study hall afforded, this homeroom had many unique experiences and will always retain many happy memories of their four years at Bay View.

Chapters in history books might begin, "The reign of Juan II, 1252 to 1406." So this chapter in homeroom history may commence, "The reign of Homeroom 315, September 6, 1943 to June 19, 1947."

The students in Homeroom 315 were not idle. The desire for fun in extra-curricular activities developed members of the basketball team, football team, life saving corps, all-city band and choir, a color guard, a cheer leader, club officers, tennis champions, Oracle typists, play leads, and operetta dancers and singers. One member of the homeroom left to serve in the armed forces.

Homeroom 315 worked together during the war years to bring in clothing and magazines and to help make Bay View High School's bond records possible.

Life Advisement periods took on an air of gaiety as well as an educational plan, as the homeroom formed a club and elected new officers at the beginning of each semester to plan and conduct the Wednesday meetings. Despite the formal parliamentary procedure everyone relaxed and always had fun.

One September morning in 1943, thirty-two "freshies" were shown to room 422, a bright and cheerful room overlooking Lake Michigan. The lecture chairs, instead of desks, were a common source of consternation to the freshmen, whose books just would not stay in place, but after four years of "balancing," they learned the real meaning of patience.

Under the leadership of Mr. Mierzwa, Homeroom 422 did its part in many war activities. Three boys were weight captains in the paper drives.

During the junior and senior years, 422 was the proud possessor of the X Club plaque, and many times the students led the entire school in scholastic averages. Perhaps Mr. Mierzwa's reward of an ice cream cone for every excellent spurred the students on.

Mr. Nelson, Rosemary Musha, Rita Gumpert, Irene Makuter

It was not long after their arrival at Bay View, that the students of Homeroom 119 discovered the beautiful view of the campus which they were to enjoy during their four-year stay. The sight of a bird gliding by, or the gentle waving of the trees often gave inspiration to make that equation balance, or to analyze that shorthand form until it made sense. They also had the folly of tardiness graphically impressed upon their minds when they saw the breathless late-comers dashing up the stairs of the main entrance.

The hustle and excitement of the bond, clothing, scrap, and paper drives will never be forgotten; especially enjoyed were the paper drives for which the homeroom was divided into two sides, the losing group acting as hosts for a party to the entire room.

All the clubs and Bay View performances, as well as athletics, were represented in 119, and the scholarship of its members merited the X Club honor plaque on several occasions. Truly 119 was a real homeroom.

MISS RILEY 213

As some thirty-five students sat in the auditorium one autumn day in September of 1943—meek as little lambs —Mr. Suttle banded all the "S's" together to form Homeroom 213.

Homeroom 213 is no exception to the old adage that every hall of fame has its pictures on the wall, for their walls were decorated every season of the year with their honor roll. In fall as the leaves turned red, some fellows chose to run around the lagoon while others were beckoned to the gridiron. Jack Frost's icy fingers did not interfere with a fast game of basketball, for 213 had several star players. When it came to swimming, the girls were represented in life saving, Nereids', and synchronized swimming.

Participating extensively in extra-curricular activities, students of Homeroom 213 often took the limelight. Out of this group came club officers, as well as actors, dancers, and singers in Bay View's stage productions.

During their four years in the room overlooking the athletic field, 213 cherished many happy hours together with Miss Riley, who was always willing to give friendly and helpful guidance. As they look forward to the future, the athletic track which they have so long enjoyed will remain a real challenge to them to keep on going.

MRS. SCHOOFS 335

Ilse Grundmann, Mildred Gray, Cora Gehrke, Thaddeus Gutowski, Carol Doepke. Seated: Mrs. Schoofs

On the morning of September 8, 1943, a group of wide-eyed freshmen entered for the first time the little homeroom around the corner, 335. Surrounded by the seven hills of Rome, ancient Latin proverbs, and a beautiful view of Montana Street from the pencil sharpener, these freshmen found life influenced by the culture of the ancients not so bad after all.

As freshmen they participated whole-heartedly in all school activities both scholastic and patriotic, starting when they were 9B's by volunteering for paper drive work.

On the first day of their sophomore year, Mrs. Schoofs gave them a pep talk. It must have done some good, for as "grown up sophomores and juniors" they held the X Club plaque continuously.

In their senior year, the outstanding events were the arrival of four returning veterans, a new window shade, a broken lock, and several visits from "Kilroy."

After making plans for a reunion in five years, they said "Good Bye" to 335, the little homeroom around the corner.

MR. J. J. SMITH 303

It was a memorable day in the autumn of 1943 when a bewildered group of freshmen stumbled across the threshold of 303 and claimed it as their homeroom. That was four short years ago, years brimming with happy events, years overflowing with companionship and enjoyment, all of which passed too quickly for the group in 303.

During the war years, 303 often led in paper drives and was always one hundred per cent in bond and stamp sales. War copy and radio broadcasts were the work of students in this homeroom. These broadcasts were made possible by the Radio Crew, whose main strength came from 303. In the musical field were operetta participants and members in the band and orchestra. Actively engaged in sports, this homeroom had members on the football, basketball, and swimming teams. In addition to athletic stars, 303 had its share of club officers,too.

They are especially proud of their club dubbed the "T. Z. T.," which made possible their horseback rides, Hallowe'en parties, Christmas parties, and other social events exclusive to the students of 303.
